JOE'S AIDE ADMITS ALTERING PHOTO Efforts To Unlax Parking Rules Doomed, Police Say

Officers Claim State Law Is Against Move

Business Committee Will Go Along With Test Of Meters

A committee of Circleville business men agreed late Thursday to go along with the city's test of make-em-move parking meters, but also notified city officials the community wants immediate relaxation of the ban on double-parking.

Almost immediately, Circleville police officers warned any move in reference to double-parking would be contrary to state law.

Under the present city ordinance, double-parking is flatly prohibited. No consideration is written into the ordinance for "quickie" shoppers, who "just want to run in and out again."

In a conference with city officials Thursday afternoon at city hall, the business men's group asked that the present ban be loosened enough to permit double-parking "for a reasonable length of time not to exceed three minutes."

MAYOR BOB HEDGES and City Safety Director Oscar Root agreed to ask that this be written into a new ordinance to be presented to City Council at the next regular meeting on Tuesday.

Within minutes after the meeting broke up, however, police officers called attention to what appeared to be a flat ban on all double-parking along Court and Main streets here. Manuals produced by the officers said all parking is prohibited "alongside any vehicle parked at the edge or curb of a street."

There was no mention of a leniency in the enforcement of this provision.

Root said he is aware of the police claims, but that he still believes the city can nullify the quoted regulations through local ordinance. He declared "there must be some way to do it" (relax the ban on double-parking) because "other cities do it."

Those present at the meeting Thursday in the mayor's office, in addition to the mayor and Root, included:

Wes Edstrom, Paul White, Mac McDonald, Adam Hamm and Don Henkle, all members of the committee named earlier by nearly 50 local tradesmen to attend the next Council meeting and urge action to ease the city's parking problems.

R. T. BLANEY and Ervin Leist were also present as interested city officials.

There was no immediate indication as to what steps would be taken in view of the warning issued by city police. The ordinance for next Tuesday was to have been submitted early Friday to City Council. (Continued on Page Two)

CIO Pushes Plan To Hike Idle Pay

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio CIO Council has taken another step in its campaign to bring proposals to revise the state unemployment compensation law before the next General Assembly and, possibly, before the voters.

The council yesterday filed with the secretary of state an approved summary of an initiative petition carrying the proposed changes. The petition proposes increasing minimum weekly benefits from $10 to $15 and extending the payment period from 26 to 39 weeks.

The proposals go before the legislature upon the filing of at least 108,155 signatures, three per cent of the statewide vote for governor in November 1952.

Dirigible Chief Dies

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Rear Adm. Herbert Victory Wiley, 63, former commanding officer of the ill-fated dirigibles U. S. S. Akron and U. S. S. Macon, died yesterday.

Russia Hinted As Ready To Demand Geneva Conference Seat For India

GENEVA (AP)—An informed source said today Russia has demanded India be invited to take part in Indochina peace talks coming up here. Such a proposal is certain to throw another obstacle in the path of the Indochina talks.

The source said the Soviets might also even ask that Indonesia and Burma be invited to take part. The United States is understood to be firmly opposed to including India in the talks on the grounds the conference should be held to as small a circle of interested nations as possible.

India's Prime Minister Nehru recently announced to his own Parliament in New Delhi a program for an end to the seven-year-old Indochina war, including an immediate cease-fire, a non-intervention pact by the big powers and direct negotiations between the French and the Communist-led Vietminh rebels.

The report of Russia's move to bring India to Geneva came shortly after it was revealed that Viet Nam's Chief of State Bao Dai had agreed to sit down at the conference table here with representatives of the Vietminh.

If the talks were to be expanded at all, the United States was reported at the most to favor only the addition of Thailand and Burma to the conference, since those two countries border Indochina.

The debate on Korea appears to be bogging down. Informed sources described the United States as annoyed by the reluctance of its Western allies to get into the formal discussion on that issue.

The importance of early agreement on the Indochina conference became apparent yesterday when Thailand's Prince Wan Waithayakon, one of the three chairmen of the general Far Eastern conference, said the general debate on Korea probably would be completed by the end of the week.

The discussion may be transferred then to working groups assigned to consider the details of various proposals made so far.

Most observers already have written off any chances of a Korean settlement as hopeless. The proposals of the Communists and the West are as far apart as they were in 1948 when the United Nations first approved its plan for unification of the divided peninsula by U. N. supervised elections.

There appeared to be a bit more optimism on the Indochina question, perhaps because Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov so far had raised no demand which the French were disposed to fight.

His main demand to date on the Indochina conference has been that the Vietminh must be included.

Although Bao Dai had threatened earlier to boycott the conference if Vietminh representatives were present, most Western diplomats felt there was no sound reason for opposing Russia's demand.

The U. S. view was that it would be extremely difficult to negotiate a settlement unless both sides were represented.

Ike's Housing Proposal Eyed

FHA Probe Is Shelved By Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate banking committee members paused in their probe of government housing scandals today to scan a mountain of testimony and figure what changes they want in President Eisenhower's housing program.

A final hearing yesterday would up the group's two-week "preliminary" probe of government-insured home repair loans and multimillion dollar "windfall" profits in the defunct rental project program.

Next step was examination of voluminous testimony taken from present and former officials of the Federal Housing Administration to locate loopholes in the Housing Act.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) announced the committee would start on May 18 to frame Eisenhower's housing recommendations into legislation. He predicted a housing bill would be ready for Senate debate by early June. The measure has already passed the House.

EISENHOWER has recommended that the $2,500 limit on home repair loans insured by the FHA be lifted to $3,000 and that the repayment period be extended from three to five years.

But this and several other Eisenhower recommendations appeared headed for either drastic revision in the Banking Committee.

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), a committee member, said he was "definitely opposed" to any continuation of the depression-spawned home repair program, now running at an annual rate of about $1 billion. Sen. Bush (R-Conn.), also on the committee, has indicated he feels the same way.

Capehart said he might agree to continue the present loan level but only if lenders are made partly responsible for loan defaults. He said also the law should be changed to drastically restrict the loans to "legitimate" home repair work, and not swimming pools and tennis courts as witnesses testified some loans were used.

Toledo Transit Strike Continues

TOLEDO (AP)—This industrial center of 325,000 people went into its fourth day without public transportation as bus company representatives and union leaders were summoned to appear before the public utilities commission today to "tell us what they are doing" to end the walkout.

Michael J. Damas, chairman of City Council, promised to conduct a full investigation into the deadlock after the conference.

The 435 striking AFL bus drivers and mechanics walked off their jobs after the Community Traction Co., refused to honor a pay boost awarded April 9 by a three-man arbitration board.

Phone Firm Setup Will Be Revised

The Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. announced Friday that a revision of its book-keeping setup here will release nine employees of the Circleville exchange.

R. N. Cole, president of the utility with main offices in Portsmouth, emphasized no changes are contemplated in the operating department here. He said the changes being put into effect, to facilitate the firm's book-keeping, are in line with centralization moves under way for some time.

The change will go into effect about May 14, and the readjustment will begin to show up in the firm's billing schedule in the near future.

Billing dates for the Ashville, Laurelville, Williamsport, Baltimore, Millersport and Pleasantville exchanges, Cole explained, will be changed from the first of the month to the 26th. For the Circleville exchange, the billing date will be moved to the 6th of the month.

BILLING DATE currently is the first of the month, and this will hold true for May 1 billing.

"The changes we're making at Circleville," Cole said, "will eliminate the need of nine of the 10 employees of the revenue accounting—or billing—department."

"One employee is being transferred and another is being retired."

He added that those covered by union agreement will be eligible for separation allowance, according to their length of service.

Bender, Saxbe Battle For GOP Nod

OBERLIN (AP)—The largest issue facing voters is President Eisenhower's program, says Rep. George H. Bender, who is seeking the Republican senatorial nomination in next week's primary.

But his rival, Ohio House Speaker William Saxbe, calls Bender's plugging for the administration "a shabby political trick to mask an extremely mediocre background."

Both candidates campaigned here and in Norwalk yesterday, with Bender stressing the importance of certain legislation in Congress, especially the proposals on the St. Lawrence Seaway, and Saxbe assailing his opponent's qualifications for candidacy.

Bender called the proposed seaway bill, which was voted out of the House Rules Committee yesterday and passed the Senate last January, "one of the most important developments in the middle west."

Turning to the national administration, Bender said "one of the major issues before the voters this year will be America's world leadership under Eisenhower."

Saxbe said Bender is backing the President's record because the congressman "has no record of his own to run on."

"He would be a weak link in the chain of Republican candidates," Saxbe contended. "He would cause the defeat of other worthy men we need to elect."

Air Force Testing Icebox In Arctic

DAYTON (AP)—Air Force engineers believe they have come up with a kind of icebox they could sell to Eskimos.

Engineers at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base's Air Materiel Command recently flew one of the freezers to the Arctic to be tested. It serves as a vacuum to keep fresh foods and vegetables from freezing solid in isolated radar and observation posts in the Arctic.

Bountiful Food Supply Is Seen

Ag Agency Says Total To Be Larger Than '53

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today food supplies for late spring and early summer may be even more plentiful than in bountiful 1953.

It said Americans are likely to eat more chicken, eggs and dairy products than a year earlier, with output of these products high and prices lower.

Supplies of meat will be somewhat below the high level of last spring because of a cutback in the pig crop last fall, the department said in a report on the national food situation. But marketings of hogs are expected to be heavier later in the year, reflecting a larger pig crop this spring, the report said.

Planting surveys were said to indicate that spring vegetable and melon production this year will be above last year, but that the spring crops of strawberries and peaches in the South will be off.

The department said supplies of some fishery products and land will be smaller, but plentiful supplies of alternates will be available.

DEMAND for food is expected to continue strong the next few months. Retail prices for many cereal products and fats and oils other than butter probably will continue a little above those of last spring, the report said.

The department also said: Prices of potatoes, sweet potatoes, some fresh vegetables, as well as dairy and poultry products are expected to be lower.

Pork prices may reach a peak around midsummer and decline sooner than usual because of heavy marketings of spring hogs.

For the spring and summer, retail food prices may average only slightly lower than both a year earlier and in the first three months of this year.

200 Wildcat Strikers Fired

WAVERLY (AP)—The prime contractor for the Portsmouth area atom plant last night fired about 200 wildcat striking truck drivers.

The contractor, Peter Kiewit Sons, Inc., asked the AFL Teamsters local in Columbus to provide replacements. Why the men struck was not clear, but it was reported the 200 drivers had organized a separate local in disagreement with the AFL international union.

Settlement of a strike of 1,200 pipefitters was reported yesterday. The pipefitters struck Monday for pay for time lost during a laborers' strike last week. Terms were not disclosed.

Greece Rattled

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Athens Observatory seismographs registered today an earthquake of "catastrophic intensity" about 135 miles northwest of Athens.

THE TRADITIONAL enmity between birds and felines gets quite a setback at the Animal Welfare League in Chicago where this Siamese cat acts more like a "mother" than a hen would with these baby chicks. The feline allows her fine feathered friends to climb on her back, but never bares her sharp claws at them.

C. And O. Official May Disclose New Industries For Circleville

Leaders in the planning for Circleville's growth awaited Friday an announcement which may go far in the tracing of future blueprints for the community and surrounding district.

Many believed Wayne C. Fletcher, industrial commissioner of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, will have important details to give Circleville when he addresses the annual dinner meeting of the city's Chamber of Commerce. The banquet, set for 6:30 p. m. Friday, will be held in St. Philip's Episcopal Church parish house.

Fletcher will come here as spokesman for the firm that touched off the city's long-range expansion drive, by offering to lead new industries here if adequate housing could be made available. First step, it was agreed, would be for the city to obtain more territory to permit the construction of many new homes.

City Council recently put the final stamp of approval on this lead-off effort, adding about 322 acres to the corporation's northern end. The annexation campaign was led by Chairman Bob Adkins of the City Planning and Zoning commission, members of that group, and other community leaders.

THE C. AND O. has yet to divulge the names of any additional industries which may be interested in building plants here. The current industrial growth was given new impetus in recent years by the

Police Benefit Ball Has Parking Space

Circleville city police wanted it made clear to the public Friday that "there won't be any parking difficulties" at the Policeman's Benefit Ball, scheduled Friday night at Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The dance begins at 9 p. m. A spokesman for the department said:

"We want everybody to know there won't be any trouble in finding parking space at the dance tonight—no trouble like they're talking about in the city. Even double-parking inside the fairgrounds will be okay."

"We'll have men on duty to help the motorists park, and there will be no charge. Even those who come late to the dance will find plenty of room for their automobiles."

3 Men Indicted In FHA Operation

DETROIT (AP)—Two Detroiters and an Ohioan were arrested last night on fraud charges linked with the FHA investigation.

The FBI said the three were accused of obtaining FHA home improvement loans by fraud and cheating home owners in deals at "exorbitant prices."

Fred McIntire, special agent in charge of the Detroit FBI office, identified the three as Max Elbert Ellis, 45, and David Pollick, 38, both of Detroit, and Nathan C. Berg, 54, of Shaker Heights, Ohio.

The FBI disclosed the three men had been indicted by a federal grand jury in Bay City yesterday. They were accused of carrying on illegal operations in Flint.

Army Lawyer Asks Senator To Testify

Stevens-Schine Picture 'Mystery' Finally Solved In Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—James Juliana, an investigator for Sen. McCarthy, testified today he ordered the printing of a controversial "cropped" photograph showing Secretary of the Army Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine alone.

He acknowledged the print was from a more extensive picture showing also Air Col. Jack T. Bradley.

Juliana said he had ordered enlargements of both the picture of Stevens and Schine alone, and a picture showing the two with Bradley.

Juliana said he delivered the photograph showing Schine and Stevens alone to the Senate committee investigating the McCarthy-Army row, because he thought that was what the committee wanted.

Prodded by Chairman Mundt (R-SD) as to whose "specific decision" it was to bring to the investigators the picture showing only Stevens and Schine, Juliana replied:

"That was my decision."

JULIANA SAID he instructed Don Surine, assistant counsel for the McCarthy committee, to prepare the enlargements.

Juliana was called to the witness chair after McCarthy spoke up at the hearings on his row with Army officials and declared Juliana had altered the picture.

In other developments:

1. Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch demanded McCarthy be called to the witness chair as soon as Secretary Stevens finishes his testimony. Mundt told Welch the committee would determine the order of the proceedings later.

2. George Anastas and Mrs. Frances Mims, staff employees of McCarthy, both swore they knew nothing about the "cropping" of the photograph. There was some conflict, however, between their accounts of how the photograph was handled at the staff offices.

3. Schine, in brief testimony, said after refreshing his memory overnight he thought he had given an accurate account yesterday of his part in the photo episode. That part was chiefly to furnish the original picture. Schine was excused from the witness chair but is to come back later for more general testimony.

Juliana insisted he was just trying to meet what he considered the wishes of the committee when he supplied the photo of Schine and Stevens alone.

Anastas said Schine gave him the picture at the Washington National Airport last Thursday, immediately after Schine brought it from New York.

Anastas said he took the picture to Room 101 in the Senate Office Bldg.—the office of the McCarthy staff—and put it on the desk of Francis Carr, staff director for the investigations subcommittee.

He said the picture was wrapped. (Continued on Page Two)

Cities To Present Phone Case In July

COLUMBUS (AP)—Cities trying to talk the state utilities commission out of granting an almost $9 million a year rate increase to Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will present their case July 26.

Setting of that date yesterday by the commission was a small victory for the cities, fighting for as much time as possible to prepare their case.

Yesterday and Wednesday 15 company witnesses briefly explained testimony which had been entered in written form. The cities have tried unsuccessfully to get the commission to dismiss the case.

Telephone Union Strike Possible

NEW YORK (AP)—An official of the CIO Communications Workers of America says the union may strike "at any time" against the Bell Telephone System.

John L. Crull, CWA vice president, said "We are still seeking peaceful settlements, even though contracts have expired in some places. However, this situation can't go on forever."

The union is in dispute with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its subsidiary companies over demands for an unspecified wage increase and company-paid medical benefits.

Du Pont Company's plant-building project south of the city.

Rumors persist that at least one more "factory" is contemplated in the vicinity of Du Pont's multi-million dollar unit. Du Pont's plant is designed to be the first commercial production plant for "Mylar," a new plastic-type film.

Many other phases of community growth will likely be touched upon at the Chamber's annual dinner. Henry L. Reid was recently elected as the new president of that body. Wes Edstrom, outgoing Chamber head, will also be one of the speakers on the Friday night program.

Tending to stir new speculation was the announcement earlier this week that spokesmen for the Chillicothe Chamber of Commerce hoped to attend the dinner "to hear what Mr. Fletcher has to say."

Adam Hamm, newly named executive secretary of the Circleville Chamber, was promptly instructed to extend a formal invitation to the Chillicothe Chamber leaders.

Pickaway Twp. Girl District Essay Winner

A Pickaway Township girl, Sidney Graves, has been designated district winner in the 1954 Soil Conservation Essay contest sponsored by the Farm Bureau.

Along with six other district winners, she will be present next Thursday when state laurels in the contest are announced at a banquet in the Fort Hays Hotel at Columbus. First place winner will receive $200, second place $100, and third $50. In addition, each district winner will receive a bronze engraved plaque.

With Miss Graves at the dinner will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graves of Kingston Route 1.

Principal speaker for the banquet will be the Rev. William H. Stauffer of Sugar Creek, a well known rural minister and long-time booster for conservation programs. The awards will be presented by Dean Wilber Wood of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

PICKAWAY COUNTY will be well represented by many who helped make the contest successful on the county level. Among those planning to attend, in addition to Miss Graves and her parents, are the following:

Hoyt Timmons, Pomona Grange; T. M. Glick, Pickaway County Farm Bureau; George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway County schools; Jerry Hapner, manager of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau Cooperative, Inc.; Don Archer, Soil Conservation Service; Paul Peck, chairman of the Pickaway County Soil Conservation District; Robert Seward, superintendent of Pickaway Township School; Ethel Brobst, Pickaway County Farm Bureau.

DT&I Action OK'd

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state utilities commission today authorized the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad to discontinue two daily passenger trains between Springfield and Jackson on May 10.

Pock Marks On Glass Said Not Unusual

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. said today its research laboratory has found "no unusual phenomenon" associated with damaged windshields shipped here from areas reporting an epidemic of pock-marked glass.

The company said its top research officials have completed examination of numerous damaged windshields flown here from widely scattered areas and "all marks on the various types of windshields had been caused by impact with gravel, cinders, limestone or similar materials."

Pittsburgh Plate, one of the nation's largest producers of windshield safety glass ordered mass tests after getting reports from various parts of the nation about auto glass suddenly cracking and becoming pock-marked.

Dr. Frank Cox, director of glass research for Pittsburgh Plate said: "By propelling stones, gravel and similar road materials against windshield glass in laboratory tests, we produced crush marks identical under microscopic examination to the marks found on the windshields shipped here."

Exceptional heavy damage to a large number of autos was reported in areas at Seattle, Detroit and Canton, Ohio. Glass from all three sections was tested.

Police Benefit Ball Has Parking Space

Circleville city police wanted it made clear to the public Friday that "there won't be a parking difficulties" at the Policemen's Benefit Ball, scheduled Friday night at Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The dance begins at 9 p. m. A spokesman for the department said:

"We want everybody to know there won't be any trouble in finding parking space at the dance tonight—no trouble like they're talking about in the city. Even double-parking inside the fairgrounds will be okay."

"We'll have men on duty to help the motorists park, and there will be no charge. Even those who come late to the dance will find plenty of room for their automobiles."

200 Wildcat Strikers Fired

WAVERLY (AP)—The prime contractor for the Portsmouth area atom plant last night fired about 200 wildcat striking truck drivers.

The contractor, Peter Kiewit Sons, Inc., asked the AFL Teamsters local in Columbus to provide replacements. Why the men struck was not clear, but it was reported the 200 drivers had organized a separate local in disagreement with the AFL international union.

Settlement of a strike of 1,200 pipefitters was reported yesterday. The pipefitters struck Monday for pay for time lost during a laborers' strike last week. Terms were not disclosed.

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Athens Observatory seismographs registered today an earthquake of "catastrophic intensity" about 135 miles northwest of Athens.

THE TRADITIONAL enmity between birds and felines gets quite a setback at the Animal Welfare League in Chicago where this Siamese cat acts more like a "mother" than a hen would with these baby chicks. The feline allows her fine feathered friends to climb on her back, but never bares her sharp claws at them.

C. And O. Official May Disclose New Industries For Circleville

Leaders in the planning for Circleville's growth awaited Friday an announcement which may go far in the tracing of future blueprints for the community and surrounding district.

Many believed Wayne C. Fletcher, industrial commissioner of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, will have important details to give Circleville when he addresses the annual dinner meeting of the city's Chamber of Commerce. The banquet, set for 6:30 p. m. Friday, will be held in St. Philip's Episcopal Church parish house.

Fletcher will come here as spokesman for the firm that touched off the city's long-range expansion drive, by offering to lead new industries here if adequate housing could be made available. First step, it was agreed, would be for the city to obtain more territory to permit the construction of many new homes.

City Council recently put the final stamp of approval on this lead-off effort, adding about 322 acres to the corporation's northern end. The annexation campaign was led by Chairman Bob Adkins of the City Planning and Zoning commission, members of that group, and other community leaders.

THE C. AND O. has yet to divulge the names of any additional industries which may be interested in building plants here. The current industrial growth was given new impetus in recent years by the

3 Men Indicted In FHA Operation

DETROIT (AP)—Two Detroiters and an Okla. were arrested last night on fraud charges linked with the FHA investigation.

The FBI said the three were accused of obtaining FHA home improvement loans by fraud and cheating home owners in deals at "exorbitant prices."

Fred McIntire, special agent in charge of the Detroit FBI office, identified the three as Max Elbert Ellis, 45, and David Pollock, 38, both of Detroit, and Nathan C. Berg, 54, of Shaker Heights, Ohio.

The FBI disclosed the three men had been indicted by a federal grand jury in Bay City yesterday. They were accused of carrying on illegal operations in Flint.

Du Pont Company's plant-building project south of the city.

Rumors persist that at least one more "factory" is contemplated in the vicinity of Du Pont's multi-million dollar unit. Du Pont's plant is designed to be the first commercial production plant for "Mylar", a new plastic-type film.

Many other phases of community growth will likely be touched upon at the Chamber's annual dinner. Henry L. Reid was recently elected as the new president of that body. Wes Edstrom, outgoing Chamber head, will also be one of the speakers on the Friday night program.

Tending to stir new speculation was the announcement earlier this week that spokesmen for the Chillicothe Chamber of Commerce hoped to attend the dinner "to hear what Mr. Fletcher has to say."

Adam Hamm, newly named executive secretary of the Circleville Chamber, was promptly instructed to extend a formal invitation to the Chillicothe Chamber leaders.

Pickaway Twp. Girl District Essay Winner

A Pickaway Township girl, Sidney Graves, has been designated district winner in the 1954 Soil Conservation Essay contest sponsored by the Farm Bureau.

Along with six other district winners, she will be present next Thursday when state laurels in the contest are announced at a banquet in the Fort Hays Hotel at Columbus. First place winner will receive $200, second place $100, and third $50. In addition, each district winner will receive a bronze engraved plaque.

With Miss Graves at the dinner will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graves of Kingston Route 1.

Principal speaker for the banquet will be the Rev. William H. Stauffer of Sugar Creek, a well known rural minister and long-time booster for conservation programs. The awards will be presented by Dean Wilber Wood of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

PICKAWAY COUNTY will be well represented by many who helped make the contest successful on the county level. Among those planning to attend, in addition to Miss Graves and her parents, are the following:

Hoyt Timmons, Pomona Grange; T. M. Glick, Pickaway County Farm Bureau; George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway County schools; Jerry Hapner, manager of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau Cooperative, Inc.; Don Archer, Soil Conservation Service; Paul Peck, chairman of the Pickaway County Soil Conservation District; Robert Seward, superintendent of Pickaway Township School; Ethel Brobst, Pickaway County Farm Bureau.

Army Lawyer Asks Senator To Testify

Stevens-Schine Picture 'Mystery' Finally Solved In Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—James Juliana, an investigator for Sen. McCarthy, testified today he ordered the printing of a controversial "cropped" photograph showing Secretary of the Army Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine alone.

He acknowledged the print was from a more extensive picture showing also Air Col. Jack T. Bradley.

Juliana said he had ordered enlargements of both the picture of Stevens and Schine alone, and a picture showing the two with Bradley.

Juliana said he delivered the photograph showing Schine and Stevens alone to the Senate committee investigating the McCarthy-Army row, because he thought that was what the committee wanted.

Prodded by Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) as to whose "specific decision" it was to bring to the investigators the picture showing only Stevens and Schine, Juliana replied:

"That was my decision."

JULIANA SAID he instructed Don Surine, assistant counsel for the McCarthy committee, to prepare the enlargements.

Juliana was called to the witness chair after McCarthy spoke up at the hearings on his row with Army officials and declared Juliana had altered the picture.

In other developments: 1. Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch demanded McCarthy be called to the witness chair as soon as Secretary Stevens finishes his testimony. Mundt told Welch the committee would determine the order of the proceedings later.

2. George Anastas and Mrs. Frances Mims, staff employees of McCarthy, both swore they knew nothing about the "cropping" of the photograph. There was some conflict, however, between their accounts of how the photograph was handled at the staff offices.

3. Schine, in brief testimony, said after refreshing his memory overnight he thought he had given an accurate account yesterday of his part in the photo episode. That part was chiefly to furnish the original picture. Schine was excused from the witness chair but is to come back later for more general testimony.

Juliana insisted he was just trying to meet what he considered the wishes of the committee when he supplied the photo of Schine and Stevens alone.

Anastas said Schine gave him the picture at the Washington National Airport last Thursday, immediately after Schine brought it from New York.

Anastas said he took the picture to Room 101 in the Senate Office Bldg.—the office of the McCarthy staff—and put it on the desk of Francis Carr, staff director for the investigations subcommittee.

He said the picture was wrapped, (Continued on Page Two)

Cities To Present Phone Case In July

COLUMBUS (AP)—Cities trying to talk the state utilities commission out of granting an almost $9 million a year rate increase to Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will present their case July 26.

Setting of that date yesterday by the commission was a small victory for the cities, fighting for as much time as possible to prepare their case.

Yesterday and Wednesday 15 company witnesses briefly explained testimony which had been entered in written form. The cities have tried unsuccessfully to get the commission to dismiss the case.

Telephone Union Strike Possible

NEW YORK (AP)—An official of the CIO Communications Workers of America says the union may strike "at any time" against the Bell Telephone System.

John L. Crull, CWA vice president, said "We are still seeking peaceful settlements, even though contracts have expired in some places. However, this situation can't go on forever."

The union is in dispute with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its subsidiary companies over demands for an unspecified wage increase and company-paid medical benefits.

and he did not unswear it, or see it.

Schine, wealthy New Yorker and former consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee, testified yesterday that the picture, as he brought it from New York, showed him, Stevens and Col. Jack T. Bradley.

An enlargement, as turned over to the investigations committee by the McCarthy camp, showed only Schine and Stevens.

The Army has denounced this as "trickery" and called the picture "shamefully doctored."

Schine, who testified yesterday he was asked by Stevens to pose with the Army secretary for the original picture at McGuire Air Force Base last Nov. 17, told the senators just before leaving the witness chair today that he had reviewed his testimony and believed he had given "an exact account" of what took place there.

THE MCCARTHY camp contends Stevens asked Schine to pose with him as part of an effort to persuade the McCarthy subcommittee to drop its investigation of subversion in the Army.

The Army's charges against McCarthy turn about the contention that the senator and his aides exerted improper pressures for preferential treatment for Schine.

Anastos flatly denied he knew anything about Col. Bradley being eliminated from the picture, making it appear Stevens and Schine were alone.

"I don't know who cut it out if they did it out," Anastos said.

Asked by Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel for the investigation, whether anyone ever told him anything about the picture's being altered, changed or an individual being cut out of it, Anastos replied that he did not.

Anastos said he hadn't heard any discussion among the McCarthy subcommittee staff about any changes being made in the picture.

Joseph N. Welch, counsel for Pentagon officials, taking up the questioning of Anastos, asked "in criminal parlance"—as he put it—whether Anastos feels "this picture has become 'hot'."

Anastos: "It certainly has, sir."

Q. "And you don't want to be any closer to it than you have to?"

A. "You're absolutely right, sir."

Four Are Hurt; Stalled Auto Hit By Second Car

Four people were injured in a two car collision on Route 23 near the intersection of Route 762. The accident occurred at 12:30 a. m. Friday and was investigated by Sheriff's Deputies Dwight Radcliff and Carl White.

Estell Madden, 22, of Columbus, told authorities she was returning home after a visit in Jackson. She said her car engine quit running and she tried to pull off the road but that another car hit hers from the rear.

Charles N. Culp, 23, of Sciotoville, driver of the second car, stated that he saw the Madden car stop. He applied his brakes, he claimed, but he couldn't help skidding into the other car.

THREE PASSENGERS in the other car were hurt. Betty Stoop, 28, suffered a laceration of her left eye. Janet Irwin, 17, had a bruised left knee. James Roberts, 18, had a laceration of the right knee. A fourth person was not hurt. All were released after treatment.

Culp is being accused of failure to stop within an assured clear distance by the deputies.

18 Entered For Running Of 80th Derby

Winner May Take Down Record Purse Of $102,800 Tomorrow

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U-P)—Eighteen 3-year-old colts, headed by the highly regarded Correlation, today were named for the 80th running of the Kentucky Derby—a mile and a quarter race that will likely be one of the richest in history.

If all 18 face the starter at 4:30 p. m. EST tomorrow, the race will have a gross value of $124,850 with the winner taking down $102,800.

There has been one richer derby in total value but no winner ever approached the hundred grand mark. The previous high was Count Turf's $98,050 in 1951.

There were no real surprises as trainers dropped the names of their hopefuls into the entry box and handed over $250 to Churchill Downs. They'll pay another $750 to start.

Three of the outsiders were not entered. In addition to Robert S. Lytle's Correlation, the favorites named to start the $100,000 added journey before the expected crowd of more than 100,000 include Goyamo, jointly owned by Royce G. Martin and Mrs. W. Alton Jones; A. J. Crevelin's combination of Determine and Allied; Hasty Road and Sea O Erin from A. E. Reuben's Hasty House Farm and C. V. Whitney's Fisherman.

HASTY ROAD, a speed demon who set a track record for the mile of 1:35 in beating Determine by a head in the derby trial Tuesday, drew the No. 1 post position. Correlation also was well placed in the No. 4 stall.

Of the other leading contenders Fisherman got far the worst of the draw. He drew No. 17. Goyamo drew No. 5 and Determine No. 7. Gov. Browning, a rank outsider who starts from the second post position and owned by K. R. Martin of Knoxville and W. N. McKinney of Nashville, Tenn., was the first to be entered.

Post position:

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

MRS. GEORGE DOTTER

Lutitia Coey Dotter, a former Circleville resident, died early Friday morning at University Hospital in Columbus after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Dotter was born here June 24, 1879, the daughter of Amos and Ann Hettinger Coey, and was married in Circleville on March 6, 1902. Her husband, George, heads the list of survivors. After living in Circleville for 20 years, the Dotters moved to New Lexington and five years later settled in Columbus.

Members of the family include: sons Paul, Charles, Guy and Carl D.; and daughters Mrs. Catherine Gaa, Mrs. Mildred Ferguson, Mrs. Lillian Moody, Mrs. Martha Deitchel and Mrs. Adelia Swisher, all from Columbus. Also surviving are a half-brother, Claude Coey of Morel and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

No definite funeral arrangements have been announced other than the fact that the Egan-Ryan Funeral Home in Columbus is handling the details.

MRS. EDWARD BERTHOLD

Florence Mary Berthold of 423 Perrin St., Ypsilanti, Mich., died Friday morning in Beyer hospital, Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Berthold was born Aug. 10, 1889 in Hocking County, a daughter of Stephen and Hester Woltz Floyd. Her husband, Edward Berthold, whom she married Nov. 18, 1913, died Nov. 3, 1948.

Surviving her are three daughters, Miss Florence Berthold, at home, Mrs. Giles Fox of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Bernard Van Fossen of Tarleton; a sister, Mrs. Dayton Hinton of Columbus; two brothers, Allen and Clarence Floyd, both of Tarleton, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. L. S. Metzler officiating. Burial will be in Green Summit Cemetery, Adelphi.

The body will be in Stevens and Bush Funeral Home, Ypsilanti, Saturday afternoon and evening. Friends may call in Defenbaugh Funeral home after 2 p. m. Sunday.

Driver Is Hurt As Car Hits Abutment

A Columbus business man, on his way home after a call at the du Pont plant, apparently lost control of his car and struck a concrete abutment on Island Rd. and Mud Run Bridge. The accident, which took place just northwest of the Circleville city limits at 10:20 a. m. Friday, injured the driver, Russell E. Reid Jr., 21.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Carl Radcliff, in their report, state that Reid, the only occupant in the car, suffered a two inch laceration on his chin in addition to other bruises. The front end of the car was demolished and was towed away by a wrecker.

Reid said that he was headed towards Route 104 when he came to a curve in the road. He turned his wheels but the car skidded and struck the concrete.

Dr. Swope treated Reid and released him.

Mrs. Mary Ayers, At 100, Holds History Dear, Lauds Hard Work

They'll gather from far and near this weekend to honor a woman who treasures the golden story of yesterday and praises the virtues of plain, every-day hard work.

Mrs. Mary Ayers, grandmother of Mrs. James Pierce of Circleville Route 4, will celebrate her 100th birthday Sunday. A family dinner will be held at the Pierce residence, and Mrs. Pierce explains:

"Those that can come will be welcome. Nothing fancy, you understand. Just a family dinner — maybe I guess it'll be sort of an open house."

"Grandmother will be glad to see all of her friends and relations," Mrs. AYERS, who lives at the Hinton Nursing Home on N. Court St., retains amazingly good health and "gets around and waits on herself." Her eyesight isn't what it always was, but the dreams she can draw from a century of worthwhile living are vivid.

And the memories they bring with them are rich in the satisfaction of years well spent.

Among Mrs. Ayers' great-grandchildren is Mrs. George Gerhardt, wife of the city solicitor who enjoys listening to the aged woman recall early Circleville days. "Grandmother loves to go back over history," Mrs. Pierce said.

Mrs. Ayers was born in Perry County, near Lexington, and moved to the Circleville district about 1873 following her first marriage. For more than 50 years her home was in the same dwelling on Half Ave.

She has four children: Mrs. Tillie Seimer, who lives at the Pierce residence; Fred Holland of Detroit; Frank Holland of Gore, O.; and Wes Holland of Circleville Route 3.

Also among those who will either be on hand Sunday or join with their wishes in the birthday celebration will be 14 grandchildren, 44 great-grandchildren, and 35 great-great-grandchildren.

UNLIKE SO any prescriptions for a long and happy life, the one Mrs. Ayers suggests has nothing to do with diet or personal ideals.

"I always had to work like a dog," she laughs. "That's it—hard work! It will make you live longer."

But come Sunday dinner-time, ever so many people will see to it that the gracious lady is no longer permitted to proclaim her formula. She'll have to remember she's the guest of honor—from here on in.

Akron Mayor Irked, Pickets Put To Flight

AKRON (U-P)—Police broke up a picket line around the strikebound Motor Cargo, Inc., freight dock yesterday after Mayor Leo A. Berg read the riot act.

The firm, struck by owner-operators objecting to a plan to pool trailers, had obtained an injunction against pickets.

The mayor read the act to the company, owner-operators and the AFL truck drivers as a line of pickets prevented trucks from moving.

Then Police Capt. Stephen J. McGowan three times called out: "In the name of the state of Ohio, go to your homes."

After that police moved in, broke up the picketing and a chain of trucks moved out.

Harvey Burton, 37, of nearby

Monroe Falls suffered minor injuries in the incident.

Six men were arrested. Five gave Pennsylvania addresses.

It was the second violent incident in the walkout. The other occurred Wednesday.

Mayor Bert said he was disturbed over an influx of what he called "out-of-town people with baseball bats."

"If they show up again," he said, "they will see what the inside of our jail looks like."

Snow falls at the equator on the mountain peaks.

Four Are Hurt; Stalled Auto Hit By Second Car

Four people were injured in a two car collision on Route 23 near the intersection of Route 762. The accident occurred at 12:30 a. m. Friday and was investigated by Sheriff's Deputies Dwight Radcliff and Carl White.

Estell Madden, 22, of Columbus, told authorities she was returning home after a visit in Jackson. She said her car engine quit running and she tried to pull off the road but that another car hit hers from the rear.

Charles N. Culp, 23, of Sciotoville, driver of the second car, stated that he saw the Madden car, stop. He applied his brakes, he claimed, but he couldn't help skidding into the other car.

Eloise Decker, 28, suffered shock. She was a passenger in the Madden car. Four others in that automobile, including three young children, were not injured.

THREE PASSENGERS in the other car were hurt. Betty Stoop, 28, suffered a laceration of her left eye. Janet Irwin, 17, had a bruised left knee. James Roberts, 18, had a laceration of the right knee. A fourth person was not hurt. All were released after treatment.

Culp is being accused of failure to stop within an assured clear distance by the deputies.

Court Fines Given 4 Traffic Violators

Charles R. Bryant, of Wheelersburg; $15 and costs for speeding 50 in a 35 miles per hour zone; arrested by Officer Ludwell Mills.

William Henry Beach Jr., 25, of Circleville; $100 and costs, three days in jail and a six month license suspension for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated; arrested by Sgt. Turney Ross.

Henry Travis, 26, of Catlettsburg, Ky.; $10 and costs for not having a valid operator's license; also arrested by Ross.

18 Entered For Running Of 80th Derby

Winner May Take Down Record Purse Of $102,800 Tomorrow

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U)—Eighteen 3-year-old colts, headed by the highly regarded Correlation, today were named for the 80th running of the Kentucky Derby—a mile and a quarter race that will likely be one of the richest in history.

If all 18 face the starter at 4:30 p. m. EST tomorrow, the race will have a gross value of $124,850 with the winner taking down $102,800.

There has been one richer derby in total value but no winner ever approached the hundred grand mark. The previous high was Count Turf's $98,050 in 1951.

There were no real surprises as trainers dropped the names of their hopefuls into the entry box and handed over $250 to Churchill Downs. They'll pay another $750 to start.

Three of the outsiders were not entered.

In addition to Robert S. Lytle's Correlation, the favorites named to start the $100,000 added journey before the expected crowd of more than 100,000 include Goyamo, jointly owned by Royce G. Martin and Mrs. W. Alton Jones; A. J. Crevelin's combination of Determine and Allied; Hasty Road and Sea O Erin from A. E. Reuben's Hasty House Farm and C. V. Whitney's Fisherman.

HASTY ROAD, a speed demon who set a track record for the mile of 1:35 in beating Determine by a head in the derby trial Tuesday, drew the No. 1 post position. Correlation also was well placed in the No. 4 stall.

Of the other leading contenders Fisherman got far the worst of the draw. He drew No. 17. Goyamo drew No. 5 and Determine No. 7.

Gov. Browning, a rank outsider who starts from the second post position and owned by K. R. Martin of Knoxville and W. N. McKinney of Nashville, Tenn., was the first to be entered.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

MRS. GEORGE DOTTER Lutitia Coey Dotter, a former Circleville resident, died early Friday morning at University Hospital in Columbus after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Dotter was born here June 24, 1879, the daughter of Amos and Ann Hettinger Coey, and was married in Circleville on March 6, 1902. Her husband, George, heads the list of survivors. After living in Circleville for 20 years, the Dotters moved to New Lexington and five years later settled in Columbus.

Members of the family include: sons Paul, Charles, Guy and Carl D.; and daughters Mrs. Catherine Gaa, Mrs. Mildred Ferguson, Mrs. Lillian Moody, Mrs. Martha Deitchel and Mrs. Adelia Swisher, all from Columbus. Also surviving are a half-brother, Claude Coey of Morel and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

No definite funeral arrangements have been announced other than the fact that the Egan-Ryan Funeral Home in Columbus is handling the details.

MRS. EDWARD BERTHOLD Florence Mary Berthold of 423 Perrin St., Ypsilanti, Mich., died Friday morning in Beyer hospital, Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Berthold was born Aug. 10, 1889 in Hocking County, a daughter of Stephen and Hester Woltz Floyd. Her husband, Edward Berthold, whom she married Nov. 18, 1913, died Nov. 3, 1948.

Surviving her are three daughters, Miss Florence Berthold, at home, Mrs. Giles Fox of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Bernard Van Fossen of Tarleton; a sister, Mrs. Dayton Hinton of Columbus; two brothers, Allen and Clarence Floyd, both of Tarleton, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. L. S. Metzler officiating. Burial will be in Green Summit Cemetery, Adelphi.

The body will be in Stevens and Bush Funeral Home, Ypsilanti, Saturday afternoon and evening. Friends may call in Defenbaugh Funeral home after 2 p. m. Sunday.

Driver Is Hurt As Car Hits Abutment

A Columbus business man, on his way home after a call at the du Pont plant, apparently lost control of his car and struck a concrete abutment on Island Rd. and Mud Run Bridge. The accident, which took place just northwest of the Circleville city limits at 10:20 a. m. Friday, injured the driver, Russell E. Reid Jr., 21.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Carl Radcliff, in their report, state that Reid, the only occupant in the car, suffered a two inch laceration on his chin in addition to other bruises. The front end of the car was demolished and was towed away by a wrecker.

Reid said that he was headed towards Route 104 when he came to a curve in the road. He turned his wheels but the car skidded and struck the concrete.

Dr. Swope treated Reid and released him.

Mrs. Mary Ayers, At 100, Holds History Dear, Lauds Hard Work

They'll gather from far and near this weekend to honor a woman who treasures the golden story of yesteryear and praises the virtues of plain, every-day hard work.

Mrs. Mary Ayers, grandmother of Mrs. James Pierce of Circleville Route 4, will celebrate her 100th birthday Sunday. A family dinner will be held at the Pierce residence, and Mrs. Pierce explains:

"Those that can come will be welcome. Nothing fancy, you understand. Just a family dinner—maybe I guess it'll be sort of an open house."

"Grandmother will be glad to see all of her friends and relations."

Officers Claim State Law Is Against Move

Licitor George Gerhardt, Gerhardt was not present at Thursday's conference.

It appeared, however, that Root's plan for a large-scale test of make-em-move parking meters will be approved by Council, following the green light given the idea by city tradesmen.

Within the next day or so, Root said, all parking meters in the heart of the downtown section will be of the make-em-move type—permitting parking for only 30 minutes or one hour. At the expiration of that time, the motorist will have to move his car to some other spot.

As soon as possible, the city safety head said, the 30-minute meters will be painted red, and the one-hour meters will be painted green. Unpainted meters, with their customary silver coating, will operate under the "old style" of parking, allowing a motorist to hold the spot indefinitely if coins are inserted.

Root warned that the "old style" meters will only be found around the fringes of the business area. He estimated the meter test will continue here for about two months.

Extended Five-Day Weather Forecast

Temperatures will average slightly above normal. Normal maximum 64 north, 71 south. Normal minimum 44-46. Cooler Saturday night and Sunday rising to normal or slightly above again Tuesday and Wednesday. Showers tonight and Saturday and again about Tuesday will total one-half inch.

And the memories they bring with them are rich in the satisfaction of years well spent.

Among Mrs. Ayers' great-grandchildren is Mrs. George Gerhardt, wife of the city solicitor who enjoys listening to the aged woman recall early Circleville days.

"Grandmother loves to go back over history," Mrs. Pierce said. Mrs. Ayers was born in Perry County, near Lexington, and moved to the Circleville district about 1873 following her first marriage. For more than 50 years her home was in the same dwelling on Half Ave.

She has four children: Mrs. Tillie Seimer, who lives at the Pierce residence; Fred Holland of Detroit; Frank Holland of Gore, O.; and Wes Holland of Circleville Route 3.

Also among those who will either be on hand Sunday or join with their wishes in the birthday celebration will be 14 grandchildren, 44 great-grandchildren, and 35 great-great-grandchildren.

UNLIKE SO any prescriptions for a long and happy life, the one Mrs. Ayers suggests has nothing to do with diet or personal rituals.

"I always had to work like a dog," she laughs. "That's it—hard work! It will make you live longer."

But come Sunday dinner-time, ever so many people will see to it that the gracious lady is no longer permitted to proclaim her formula. She'll have to remember she's the guest of honor—from here on in.

Akron Mayor Irked, Pickets Put To Flight

AKRON (U)—Police broke up a picket line around the strikebound Motor Cargo, Inc., freight dock yesterday after Mayor Leo A. Berg read the riot act.

The firm, struck by owner-operators objecting to a plan to pool trailers, had obtained an injunction against pickets.

The mayor read the act to the company, owner-operators and the AFL truck drivers as a line of pickets prevented trucks from moving.

Then Police Capt. Stephen J. McGowan three times called out: "In the name of the state of Ohio, go to your homes."

After that police moved in, broke up the picketing and a chain of trucks moved out.

Harvey Burton, 37, of nearby

Monroe Falls suffered minor injuries in the incident. Six men were arrested. Five gave Pennsylvania addresses.

It was the second violent incident in the walkout. The other occurred Wednesday.

Mayor Bert said he was disturbed over an influx of what he called "out-of-town people with baseball bats."

"If they show up again," he said, "they will see what the inside of our jail looks like."

Robert Taft Jr. OKs Saxbe, Sparks Interest In Primary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The promise of Robert A. Taft Jr., to vote for William Saxbe for the Senate seat of his late father poised interest in Tuesday's primary election.

Young Taft's declaration coincided with the Cincinnati Times-Star's endorsement of Saxbe's opponent for the Republican nomination, Rep. George H. Bender of Cleveland.

Young Taft, a candidate for state representative, is a director of the newspaper. Another of the late senator's sons, Lloyd Taft, is assistant publisher and vice president.

The fight between Bender, 23rd District congressman and Cuyahoga County GOP chairman, and Saxbe, Mechanicsburg attorney and Ohio House speaker, has topped other election contests.

They seek the right to oppose Democrat Sen. Thomas A. Burke, former Cleveland mayor, in November for election to the remaining two years of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's six-year term.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat who admired Taft, appointed Burke to serve pending election of a successor to complete the term. Burke is unopposed for the Democratic nomination for the remaining two years.

Saxbe jumped into the campaign a week after Bender received endorsement from the state Republican organization. Waging an uphill battle, Saxbe criticized Bender's record and claimed he attempted to cloak himself in Taft's mantle. He expressed doubt Sen. Taft would have supported Bender and said his son had spoken for him in endorsing Saxbe.

Bender generally has ignored Saxbe and concentrated his fire on Burke. Bender called for election of a Republican who has demonstrated he would support President Eisenhower's program in a Congress where the political balance is close.

Besides a senator, Ohioans will nominate candidates for 23 congressional seats, members of the Ohio Legislature, state and county officials, judges and state and county central committeemen. The committeemen run the party machinery.

Despite the senatorial campaign, election officials held to their prediction of a light primary vote.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown estimated 525,000 Republicans and 425,000 Democrats will mark ballots. In the last non-presidential primary four years ago 572,711 Republicans and 478,221 Democrats voted. An estimated 5 1/2 million Ohioans are eligible to vote.

Sixteen of Ohio's 23 congressmen are Republicans. Six are Democrats. Another nominal Democrat serves as an independent. Republicans have contests in five districts where Democrats have seats. Democrats have contests in nine districts with incumbents in three of them facing opposition.

Bender passed up what he termed a sure re-nomination to run for senator. And in the 13th District, Rep. Alvin F. Weichel, Sandusky Republican, said health prevented him from seeking re-election.

Lausche, serving his fourth two-year term and seeking a fifth, is unopposed for nomination. His Republican opponent is State Auditor James A. Rhodes, former Columbus mayor, also unopposed for nomination. Rhodes is midway through a four-year term as auditor. Other elected state officials serve two years.

Top contest among Democrats is for lieutenant governor. Lausche has indicated a preference for George D. Nye of Waverly as his running-mate. Nye has been a candidate for the office every two years, beginning in 1942. He won election three times during campaigns with Lausche.

Contesting Nye for the nomination are Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus, former Ohio attorney general, and John Taylor of Salem, former state senator and unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1940.

The winner next November will oppose Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Republican incumbent.

Democrats have another three-man contest for the state treasurer nomination. Lausche has given his nod to John W. Donahy of Hudson, son of a former governor and state senator. Donahy's opponents are former State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson of Columbus and John J. Gallagher of Cleveland, the 1932 nominee.

The Republican incumbent, state Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, is unopposed for a third-term nomination.

Democrats have two-man contests in the race for attorney general and for the Jan. 1 term as Ohio Supreme Court Judge.

Paul F. Ward of Columbus, the 1932 attorney general nominee, is opposed by Walter U. Bolton, former Newark solicitor. The winner will face Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill of Marietta, Republican incumbent unopposed for re-nomination.

Common Pleas Judge James F. Bell of London and Fred A. Dewey, Cincinnati law professor, seek the nomination to oppose Supreme Court Judge Henry A. Middleton of Toledo for election next November.

Judge Kingsley A. Taft of Cleveland lacks opponents in either party for re-election next November.

Judge Kingsley A. Taft of Cleveland lacks opponents in either party for re-election to the Jan. 2 term on the high court. Full court terms are for six years.

Four Republicans are contesting for nomination for the remaining two years of the term of the late Judge Edward S. Matthias of Columbus.

The contestants are Matthias' son, Columbus Municipal Judge

John M. Matthias; Francis B. Douglass of Cleveland, unsuccessful Supreme Court aspirant in 1950 and 1952; Willard D. Campbell of Cambridge, former state senator, prosecutor and judge, and Common Pleas Judge Leland R. Ruthenford of Morrow County, a transplanted Cleveland.

The winner will oppose Judge John H. Lamneck of New Philadelphia, former state welfare director, for election to the short term. Lamneck, serving by appointment, is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Secretary of State Brown, a Republican, and State Rep. Robert W. Reider, Port Clinton Democrat, are unopposed for their party nominations. Brown is seeking a third term as the state's chief election official.

Other nominations at stake in the primary include those for county auditor and commissioner, Appellate Court judges, probate judges in all but four counties, some common pleas judges and candidates for a number of unexpired terms in various offices. Numerous communities have bond issues and other questions on the ballot for decision.

NEW INCREASE SHOWN IN SALES TAX COLLECTIONS

Pickaway County trade reacted upward again when, for the first time since the week ending Feb. 6, weekly sales tax collections for all of Ohio surpassed receipts for the corresponding period of 1953.

The new gains, county and statewide, were reported Friday by State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, giving the latest available information on the highly regarded business barometer chart. The comparisons were on the week ended April 17.

For that week this year, sales tax collections in Pickaway County amounted to $7,281.99. For the corresponding week of last year, the county total was $5,681.06.

Looking at the same comparison statewide, Tracy reported collections this year were $2,994,572, a gain of $82,422 over receipts for the same week of last year. Prior to the latest report, the only gain

Robert Taft Jr. OKs Saxbe, Sparks Interest In Primary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The promise of Robert A. Taft Jr., to vote for William Saxbe for the Senate seat of his late father poised interest in Tuesday's primary election.

Young Taft's declaration coincided with the Cincinnati Times-Star's endorsement of Saxbe's opponent for the Republican nomination, Rep. George H. Bender of Cleveland.

Young Taft, a candidate for state representative, is a director of the newspaper. Another of the late senator's sons, Lloyd Taft, is assistant publisher and vice president.

The fight between Bender, 23rd District congressman and Cuyahoga County GOP chairman, and Saxbe, Mechanicsburg attorney and Ohio House speaker, has topped other election contests.

They seek the right to oppose Democrat Sen. Thomas A. Burke, former Cleveland mayor, in November for election to the remaining two years of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's six-year term.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat who admired Taft, appointed Burke to serve pending election of a successor to complete the term. Burke is unopposed for the Democratic nomination for the remaining two years.

Saxbe jumped into the campaign a week after Bender received endorsement from the state Republican organization. Waging an uphill battle, Saxbe criticized Bender's record and claimed he attempted to cloak himself in Taft's mantle. He expressed doubt Sen. Taft would have supported Bender and said his son had spoken for him in endorsing Saxbe.

Bender generally has ignored Saxbe and concentrated his fire on Burke. Bender called for election of a Republican who has demonstrated he would support President Eisenhower's program in a Congress where the political balance is close.

Besides a senator, Ohioans will nominate candidates for 23 congressional seats, members of the Ohio Legislature, state and county officials, judges and state and county central committeemen. The committeemen run the party machinery.

Despite the senatorial campaign, election officials held to their prediction of a tight primary vote.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown estimated 525,000 Republicans and 425,000 Democrats will mark ballots. In the last non-presidential primary four years ago 572,711 Republicans and 478,221 Democrats voted. An estimated 5½ million Ohioans are eligible to vote.

Sixteen of Ohio's 23 congressmen are Republicans. Six are Democrats. Another nominal Democrat serves as an independent. Republicans have contests in five districts where Democrats have seats. Democrats have contests in nine districts with incumbents in three of them facing opposition.

Bender passed up what he termed a sure re-nomination to run for senator. And in the 13th District, Rep. Alvin F. Weichel, Sandusky Republican, said health prevented him from seeking re-election.

Lausche, serving his fourth two-year term and seeking a fifth, is unopposed for nomination. His Republican opponent is State Auditor James A. Rhodes, former Columbus mayor, also unopposed for nomination. Rhodes is midway through a four-year term as auditor. Other elected state officials serve two years.

Top contest among Democrats is for lieutenant governor. Lausche has indicated a preference for George D. Nye of Waverly as his running-mate. Nye has been a candidate for the office every two years, beginning in 1942. He won election three times during campaigns with Lausche.

Contesting Nye for the nomination are Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus, former Ohio attorney general, and John Taylor of Salem, former state senator and unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1940.

The winner next November will oppose Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Republican incumbent.

Democrats have another three-man contest for the state treasurer nomination. Lausche has given his nod to John W. Donahay of Hudson, son of a former governor and state senator. Donahay's opponents are former State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson of Columbus and John J. Gallagher of Cleveland, the 1952 nominee.

The Republican incumbent, state Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, is unopposed for a third-term nomination.

Democrats have two-man contests in the race for attorney general and for the Jan. 1 term as Ohio Supreme Court Judge. Paul F. Ward of Columbus, the 1952 attorney general nominee, is opposed by Walter U. Bolton, former Newark solicitor. The winner will face Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill of Marietta, Republican incumbent unopposed for re-nomination.

Common Pleas Judge James F. Bell of London and Fred A. Dewey, Cincinnati law professor, seek the nomination to oppose Supreme Court Judge Henry A. Middleton of Toledo for election next November.

Judge Kingsley A. Taft of Cleveland lacks opponents in either party for re-election next November.

Judge Kingsley A. Taft of Cleveland lacks opponents in either party for re-election to the Jan. 2 term on the high court. Full court terms are for six years.

Four Republicans are contesting for nomination for the remaining two years of the term of the late Judge Edward S. Matthias of Columbus.

The contestants are Matthias' son, Columbus Municipal Judge

New Increase Shown In Sales Tax Collections

Pickaway County trade reacted upward again when, for the first time since the week ending Feb. 6, weekly sales tax collections for all of Ohio surpassed receipts for the corresponding period of 1953.

The new gains, county and statewide, were reported Friday by State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, giving the latest available information on the highly regarded business barometer chart. The comparisons were on the week ended April 17.

For that week this year, sales tax collections in Pickaway County amounted to $7,281.99. For the corresponding week of last year, the county total was $5,681.06.

Looking at the same comparison statewide, Tracy reported collections this year were $2,994,572, a gain of $82,422 over receipts for the same week of last year. Prior to the latest report, the only gain recorded during the calendar year, on a statewide basis, was in the first week of February, amounting to $4,400. Pickaway County figures, however, have shown minor gains for some weeks in the face of statewide losses.

FIVE OF THE eight classifications in the latest report showed statewide increases in receipts, and in four classifications the gains were substantial. These included general and department stores; chain stores, apparel and the miscellaneous groups, while furniture made a slight gain.

While motor vehicle receipts still lagged behind, the receipts were only $84,803 below a year ago, while for the previous week the collections were $141,069 off from a year ago.

CHS Group Debates Teen-Age Voting, UMT, Nuclear Weapons

Six Circleville High School students, in a panel discussion at Thursday's meeting of the Rotary Club, weighed from various views three subjects frequently found in the nation's daily headlines.

The informal debating centered on the topics, "Should the Voting Age be Reduced to 18 Years?", "Universal Military Training," and "Development of Nuclear Weapons." The discussion panel was composed of Nancy Hughes, Carol Leist, Phyllis Dresbach, George Troutman, Robert Reber and Lee Risley. Mary Walters served as moderator.

A wide diversity of opinion on the first two subjects reflected the particular interest they hold for students of high school age. On the subject of nuclear weapons, the panel's views conformed largely to the general public's attitude of deep concern over the future use of the power behind the atomic and hydrogen bombs.

Viewpoints expressed on the subject of voting rights for the 18-year olds included the following:

STUDENTS AT 18 are not yet mature in mind and have yet to become familiar with many of the problems of the nation and community. Consequently they should not be allowed to cast ballots at that age.

The age of 18, no matter how thorough the classroom training, does not usually bring with it enough all-around education to qualify the teen-agers to vote. The theory that "those young enough to fight are old enough to vote" is false, inasmuch as many fighters with physical maturity do not have a fully developed mental education.

Teen-agers pay taxes and hence should be allowed to vote. To deny them this right amounts to "taxation without representation".

If an 18-year old is old enough to marry, hear she should be old enough to vote. In direct opposition to this view was the claim, by another panel member, that 26 per cent of the marriages between 18 and 21 end in divorce, indicating "a lack of maturity of mind."

Teen-agers allowed to vote would also be permitted to serve on a jury, and one member of the discussion group commented he "wouldn't want a jury of 18-year olds to decide my fate".

If 18-year-olds had the privilege of voting, they would probably be influenced to a great degree by how their parents voted. In opposition to this was the view that America's teen-agers today are notably so independent that they would not be swayed by any such influence.

TEEN-AGERS have more enthusiasm for any cause they support, and thus—if allowed to vote—would bring a new and refreshing vigor into the picture of better government.

Especially significant, with the primary elections scheduled next Tuesday, was the comment by one panel member that the question of getting the grownups to vote is far more important than the possibility of giving that right to the 18-year old boys and girls.

Like the voting topic, the subject relating to Universal Military Training likewise found the panel divided in its opinions. Views included:

Such military training would be worthwhile inasmuch as it would greatly reduce or eliminate altogether the basic military training which inductees now have to undergo.

Six months to a year of Universal Military Training would be far more attractive to the nation's youth than the prospect of two years of service in the Army.

Universal Military Training would place an additional heavy load on the already-burdened budget, and "a nation going deeper into debt is not going forward."

IT WOULD BE much better for America in the long run to have the teen-agers continue their education into college than it would be to have them interrupt it to serve in the UMT program.

Ancient Rome and Greece, and the Japan, Italy and Germany of modern history, all placed the accent of youth on military training — yet all eventually crumbled into defeat. Opposing this view was the claim that corrupt leaders, and not the national policy, was the reason for such defeat.

Military training for youth is a policy for an aggressor nation, while the United States is not an aggressor nation.

On the subject of nuclear weapons, all members of the discussion panel agreed the picture is one filled with fear for the future peace of the world.

Members of the group likewise agreed it was unfortunate that the world's new field of tremendous energy had to be unlocked first for destructive purposes.

Robert LeMaster and Carl Lindsey were student guests at the Rotary meeting.

Ohio State University, with $3,342,028 in endowments in the treasury, got $99,341. Miami University's endowment of $210,005 drew $6,238 in interest. Ohio University's $154,193 earned $4,580.

Mother's Day Set For May 9

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower has called for nationwide observance of Mother's Day on May 9.
In a proclamation, the President said "our mothers are enshrined in our hearts as symbols of those high ideals which have fostered our growth as a great nation."

Eisenhower urged the public generally to display the American Flag at their homes and in other suitable places on May 9 "as an expression of love for their own mothers and reverence for the mothers of our country."

May Is Seen As Key Month To Economy

Businessmen Hoping To See New Gains Throughout Nation

By SAM DAWSON

CHICAGO (AP) — April threw a roadblock in the path of the recession. Businessmen are hoping today that in May the economy will try to regain a little of the lost ground.

They are looking at April reports and May signposts for the nation as a whole, rather than for just this or any other one region. For many industries—like steel—April saw a slowing of the rate of decline which started about a year ago. For others—like autos—April brought a revival of business, as expected in the spring. A few—like textiles—found the going rougher and production and employment declining.

Let's look at some of the hopes for May. Merchants are counting on a fairly steady stream of consumer dollars in the nation as a whole. Despite the toll from loss of overtime by most workers, shorter work weeks for many, and even unemployment for a sizable number, store sales on a national basis have held close to a year ago. Income tax cuts increased take-home pay for many persons, and excise tax cuts lowered prices on some goods.

Consumers as a whole have been paying off their old debts faster than they've been taking on new ones. Interest rates in general are easing and May should see more idle money waiting for borrowers. Retailers and finance companies hope that in May the customers will step up their on-time buying. The total of savings has risen despite the business dip. Merchants and manufacturers hope that means there's plenty of money to be spent—when consumers get around to tapping it.

Building plans indicate May should be a good month. Home starts are running around the year-ago mark. Businessmen list their plant and equipment expansion plans as around last year's level. Yet contracts for heavy construction are lower than a year ago, indicating labor-saving tools and machinery rather than new factories are getting the big play now.

And some of the giant companies with big plans for building are leaning toward plants for producing their own supplies, thus cutting off markets for their former suppliers. It could be as much a shift in the economy as a growth. Steelmen express hope output out of the mills has touched bottom and that May will see a modest pickup in orders.

TOLEDO (AP)—Scoutmaster John E. Schellpfeffer, 38, did 12 good deeds in a row recently and was fined $50 for his thoughtfulness.

State Highway Patrolmen R.W. Newell and J. N. Hendricks were making a radar speed check on U. S. 23 near here. Patrolman Hendrickson, in the parked radar car, said he looked in his rear-view mirror and saw a string of

The driver of the lead car was waving a sign. The leader turned out to be Schellpfeffer, and his handmade sign warned: "Speed trap ahead." He was cited for displaying an illegal sign.

SHORTER HOURS

ORGANIZED LABOR'S drive for a shorter work week will soon come into full flower. David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, CIO, is spearheading a campaign to make the goal of collective bargaining by the unions a six-hour day and a 30-hour week. Labor's bargainers will insist that there be no reduction in pay.

Currently many business units complain that their net profits have shrunk, though gross sales may have increased, because of high fixed costs. Labor is the principal cost in most industries and that cost could increase ruinously with a reduction of two hours of work per day at the same daily pay.

Viewed in broad perspective, it is possible the work week will be further shortened. Older folk can remember when people worked 12 hours or longer daily. It took a deal of persuasion to achieve the eight-hour day in some industries. Today's basic week of 40 hours has been in effect for more than a decade.

Further declines in the length of the work week will come, if at all, in the same manner that the 40-hour week was achieved—gradually. There will be no abrupt drop to 30 hours, and union leaders are aware of that fact. But by agitating for a 30-hour week they hope to end up with a 38-hour work stint for seven days.

MORE WINDSHIELD WORRIES

WINDSHIELDS aren't cracking now, it seems—they have succumbed to small pox or some similar ailment that makes them pictorially unattractive.

Whether pock-marked windshields are an acceptable substitute for flying saucers as springtime conversation pieces cannot be accurately predicted. But it is hardly likely that pock-marked windshields will be good for several years, as were the saucers.

What percentage of windshields is generally marked or cracked in a year's time is a secret of the insurance companies, but the theory that the present epidemic is merely a matter of simultaneous, instead of stretched out, reporting of damage to windshields is hardly tenable.

But that's as close as we are going to get to involvement in theorizing as to probable causes, etc. Perhaps grasshoppers chewing a new and more potent brand of tobacco are squirting the juice on passing windshields as is good a guess as any.

TORNADO TIME

KANSAS HAS HAD the reputation, since earliest days of settlement, of being the premier tornado state of the nation. Natives resent and repudiate this as unjustified calumny. Or, as one writer who is not enamored of Kansas, said: "They assert vehemently that Kansas doesn't have tornadoes either."

But this is tornado season, and Kansas has had very few, it must be admitted. Most of them have been in the Southwest, with a smattering farther north and east. Tornadoes still cause approximately as much damage as in the past, despite more substantial construction of buildings, and a greatly touted tornado warning service. A tornado is still the twister of old, and where it strikes nobody knows.

WASHINGTON — An attitude of greater solicitude for the vast body of unorganized workers has supplanted Roosevelt-Truman devotion to the politically minded bosses of the "big four" unions since James P. Mitchell succeeded Martin P. Durkin, plumbing union official as Secretary of Labor.

Unlike his Democratic predecessors, Mitchell believes that the 18 million members of the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, the United Mine Workers and the Railway Brotherhoods are fully protected in their rights by existing law and contractual agreements with responsible employers. Although not too successful in recent years, they can also exert political pressure on Capitol Hill and at the polls.

But the 40 million employed in nonindustrial plants—tradesmen, service people and white-collar employees—need more consideration in order to preserve a well-balanced economy, in his opinion. They are the principal victims in an economic squeeze.

HOPES—Mitchell does not advocate any new or far-reaching federal legislation on their behalf, such as was enacted for union members during the Democratic regime. He believes that their lot can be improved through establishment of better and more stabilized relations with the front office than by bureaucratic laws or action.

He thinks, too, that the 48 states can and should adopt legislation on their behalf. Working together, he feels that Washington and the states can fix and possibly increase minimum wages in these lines, broaden and boost unemployment insurance protection, provide a degree of guaranteed work and improve health standards.

Again reversing previous policies, Mitchell maintains that the Labor Department, although established to protect the interests of the workers, should seek the viewpoints and cooperation of employers. He has already found them sympathetic to his plan for a more well-balanced and comprehensive administrative system, with greater emphasis on

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Professor Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University, who has been very active in the development of the new economics which guided the New Deal, has penned a sentence which requires some comment even while the Senate is probing into who said what to whom, which seems so important to some people that the Chief of Staff of the Army and other top brass can take time off to sit for hours as spectators while a war is going on in Indochina. The learned professor wrote:

"When there are deficits, the business man pulls in his belt. But this is a fatal principle in government. The guiding doctrine should be this: what government does better, or what cannot be done under private auspices, must be done by government. But the new Administration proposes a return to 18th Century principles that would leave undone all but the minimum tasks of government."

The doctrine here enunciated is even new in the New Deal in one part of the argument, namely that "what government does better... must be done by government." This is, of course, a total negation of private enterprise. I suppose by "better," the professor means more efficiently, more cheaply, more adequately. It is not beyond belief that the Government could dispense cigars more efficiently and even more cheaply than the thousands of cigar stores that compete against each other for my custom.

The government-owned installations could make up the difference by not paying taxes; by putting in low-priced civil service workers who would be forbidden to strike by law and whose only hope for the future lay in a pension; by taking the sites for factories and stores from private owners by the law of eminent domain; by making up deficits out of taxes; and finally, by abolishing cigars as against the common interest.

This is the efficiency of slavery, not of free men. Apparently Professor Harris would not have the Government perform minimum tasks as Thomas Jefferson held to be right. What are the maximum tasks of government? It could be total control of every function of the individual in society, the ownership of all property and the control of each person, from the cradle to the grave. Such a society now exists in the Soviet Universal State.

Its most developed form is in Soviet Russia; its worst form is in Red China. In both these countries, limitations are placed upon the development of the individual which have produced a way of life completely different from ours in which the individual need neither be dependent upon nor cravenly obedient to those who control the power of the state. He can vote them out of office.

fied calumny. Or, as one writer who is not enamored of Kansas, said: "They assert vehemently that Kansas doesn't have tornadoes either."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — An attitude of greater solicitude for the vast body of unorganized workers has supplanted Roosevelt-Truman devotion to the politically minded bosses of the "big four" unions since James P. Mitchell succeeded Martin P. Durkin, plumbing union official as Secretary of Labor.

He has already found them sympathetic to his plan for a more well-balanced and comprehensive administrative system, with greater emphasis on social relationships than political action.

RESPONSE — Strangely enough, he has met a responsive reaction from labor union officials, especially George L. Meany, AFL president, and Walter P. Reuther, CIO head. They take the logical position that improved conditions for all workers will have a beneficial effect on the union membership.

For one thing, by closing the economic gap between 40 million less fortunate placed workers and the unionized forces in heavy industries, it will remove or lessen white-collar prejudice toward the more privileged employees. By emphasizing the responsibilities of states and management toward the unorganized, it will tend to remove this difficult question from the halls of Congress and the White House doorstep.

Naturally, Mitchell has President Eisenhower's full support in his attempted reorientation of labor policies and objectives. Such erstwhile employers of vast pools of labor as Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson (General Motors), Treasury Secretary George

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR
JULIA ran up the ramp, and down the steps to the emergency room. Only Dr. Aiken was there. He said: "Looking for somebody, Miss Taber?"

"Dr. Marshall. I have someone outside who wants to see him."

"Won't I do?"

"No. Sorry, you won't do, doctor." She ran upstairs to the desk. It was already late. Pete might be asleep. "Call Dr. Marshall for me, will you, please? This is an emergency," she told the girl on duty there.

"Dr. Aiken is on emergency tonight."

"This is special. Just call him on the house phone, please? I think he'll come down. Tell him it's Miss Taber calling."

Pete came down. He still wore his white coat. He looked rumpled as though he had been asleep.

"You, Taber? What now?"

"Will you go out with me, doctor, on a very special case?"

"You know I don't take cases outside the hospital."

"This isn't a medical case. It's—psychological, I think. It's Sewell Albright's daughter."

He frowned. "I'm not a psychiatrist either, Taber."

"I'm not asking you to do anything unethical. Would you walk down here a little way where no one is listening?"

He moved a few paces down the hall, leaned against the wall. "Albright's daughter. She's that dark girl with the go-to-the-devil eye, isn't she?"

"Sally. She's in trouble—and because they are friends of our family I must help her. Doctor, you know Farrell Rhodes pretty well, don't you? Will you go with me to take Sally Albright out there?"

"Listen, Taber, that Rhodes girl is pretty weak. Why are you mixing up in this, anyway? Why not telephone Albright and let him take over?"

"I intend telephoning him. But Farrell Rhodes is the person who can help the most and I don't know her very well. I thought—if you'd go with me—you have to help me, doctor!"

He jerked down a corner of his mouth. "So I have to help you? Even if it's getting on to 11 o'clock and you look dead on your feet. May I put on some other clothes, or do we tackle this business in uniform?"

"I'll wait. I'm going to telephone Sewell now. Please hurry though, doctor—and thank you."

Pete came down in a few minutes, fully clothed and carrying a small black bag. They walked out.

MORE PEACE—Certain union leaders still belabor Eisenhower with criticism that he favors business and industry and finance. They feel for professional reasons that they must denounce his proposals for Taft-Hartley revision and tax reform, although the rank and file do not seem to share their misgivings.

On the whole, however, there is more peace along the labor front under Ike than there was under those patron saints of the "big four" unions, Roosevelt and Truman. There are no strikes of essential industries in progress or in prospect. The CIO steel workers' contract expires soon, but it is expected they will settle for a noninflationary eight-cent-an-hour boost, mostly in fringe benefits.

to the car together. Sally was slumped in a corner of the seat.

"I've brought Dr. Marshall, Sally," Julia said. "He'll go with us—but you'd better drive your own car, doctor. Sally might not be coming back here tonight."

"Now she tells me," he grumbled after he had greeted Sally brusquely. "I hope I've got some gas in the darned crate."

"You lead the way—and don't run away from us," Julia ordered, walking around Sally's car. "I don't know the way. Move over, Sally. I'll drive."

"I don't know where you're taking me," Sally said, when the car bumped over a succession of railroad tracks. "I suppose I don't care particularly." But in a few minutes she stiffened, recognizing the shabby street. "Rhody—Oh, no!" she cried.

"She'll know what to do. Trust us, Sally."

"What else can I do?" Sally moaned.

"Look pitiful and crushed," advised Julia. "Above all don't be defiant, Sally."

When they reached the house, Pete Marshall stopped his car ahead of them and came to the window. "Now what do we do? These respectable people have gone to bed. So we rout them out and drop this problem of yours, whatever it is, into their innocent laps?"

"We do exactly that," replied Julia firmly. "You go up and knock and rouse them. Come along, Sally."

Rhody's grandmother let them in, blinking, and when she understood what was wanted, tintured the air with astringent remarks concerning people who would get a sick girl out of bed, and why couldn't they come tomorrow?

"Because we've come now," Pete murmured her, almost lifting her off her feet with a gallant arm. "Run and tell her Sally wants to talk to her. She needn't get out of bed at all."

"But I don't want to talk to Rhody!" protested Sally in a sick whisper.

"We do," insisted Julia. "Come along."

The old lady had lighted a lamp in a kind of sitting-room and almost immediately Farrell Rhodes came out of an inner room, with her hair in small, wet doughnuts around her face and her old robe faded and ravelling at the buttonholes.

Every vestige of the cool aplomb Julia remembered had vanished from Farrell's white face.

She held out her arms when Julia explained their mission and Sally rushed into them.

"Oh, Rhody! Oh, Rhody!" Quietly Julia told them all the dreary truth, while Sally sobbed against Farrell Rhodes' shoulder.

"Is this definite, Miss Albright?" Pete asked. "You've had medical confirmation of your suspicions?"

Sally nodded, tears streaming down her face. The man in the wheel chair stirred then. "My girl ain't got nothing to do with any such business," he said.

Farrell said: "Let's all sit down. Grandma, wouldn't you like to make a pot of coffee?"

The old woman left reluctantly and Sally relaxed a little when the fierce little black eyes removed their withering scorn from her. Then there was a drumbeat of crutches on the porch outside and Julia went to the door to let Sewell Albright in.

"What goes on here, Dooley?" he demanded, as the boy helped him off with his coat. "Must be serious—getting me out of bed in the night."

"It is serious, Sewell. Send the boy back to the car and come in."

Sally gave a little cry when her father walked into the room and then hurried to her shoulder. It hurt Julia to see him sag and grow gray and crumble when he was told. But he held Sally tight, though he swayed on his feet. "My poor baby!" he moaned. "I should have taken better care of you!"

"Dooley made me come," Sally said. "Oh, daddy, I'm so sorry, so sick and ashamed."

Sewell looked at Pete over her head. "What's your suggestion, doctor. You've got an idea about this business, I guess. What do you advise me to do?"

"Send her away somewhere. Arrange for an adoption later. Then forget the whole thing. Or course it would be better if you sent someone with her."

Sally clutched at her father. "Rhody—I want Rhody!"

Sewell put her gently into a chair, clumped over to Farrell Rhodes. "How about it, Rhody? Would you take it on? For Sally? For me? Florida, maybe—might do your throat good. Get your strength back. I don't know what I'll do without you, though—office has gone to pot lately."

Old Mrs. Adams came in in time to hear this last. She bumped a trayful of cups down on the table, squared herself. "Well, now—I don't think—" she began.

"Salary and expenses, of course," Sewell put in.

Serenity looked at her son, and Mike nodded. "Florida sure would do her good," she agreed.

SHORTER HOURS

ORGANIZED LABOR'S drive for a shorter work week will soon come into full flower. David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, CIO, is spearheading a campaign to make the goal of collective bargaining by the unions a six-hour day and a 30-hour week. Labor's bargainers will insist that there be no reduction in pay.

Currently many business units complain that their net profits have shrunk; though gross sales may have increased, because of high fixed costs. Labor is the principal cost in most industries and that cost could increase ruinously with a reduction of two hours of work per day at the same daily pay.

Viewed in broad perspective, it is possible the work week will be further shortened. Older folk can remember when people worked 12 hours or longer daily. It took a deal of persuasion to achieve the eight-hour day in some industries. Today's basic week of 40 hours has been in effect for more than a decade.

Further declines in the length of the work week will come, if at all, in the same manner that the 40-hour week was achieved—gradually. There will be no abrupt drop to 30 hours, and union leaders are aware of that fact. But by agitating for a 30-hour week they hope to end up with a 38-hour work stint for seven days.

MORE WINDSHIELD WORRIES

WINDSHIELDS aren't cracking now, it seems—they have succumbed to smallpox or some similar ailment that makes them pictorially anaesthetic.

Whether pock-marked windshields are an acceptable substitute for flying saucers as springtime conversation pieces cannot be accurately predicted. But it is hardly likely that pock-marked windshields will be good for several years, as were the saucers.

What percentage of windshields is generally marked or cracked in a year's time is a secret of the insurance companies, but the theory that the present epidemic is merely a matter of simultaneous, instead of stretched out, reporting of damage to windshields is hardly tenable.

But that's as close as we are going to get to involvement in theorizing as to probable causes, etc. Perhaps grasshoppers chewing a new and more potent brand of tobacco are squirting the juice on passing windshields is as good a guess as any.

TORNADO TIME

KANSAS HAS HAD the reputation, since earliest days of settlement, of being the premier tornado state of the nation. Natives resent and repudiate this as unjustified calumny. Or, as one writer who is not enamored of Kansas, said: "They assert vehemently that Kansas doesn't have tornadoes either."

But this is tornado season, and Kansas has had very few, it must be admitted. Most of them have been in the Southwest, with a smattering farther north and east. Tornadoes still cause approximately as much damage as in the past, despite more substantial construction of buildings, and a greatly touted tornado warning service. A tornado is still the twister of old, and where it strikes nobody knows.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Professor Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University, who has been very active in the development of the new economics which guided the New Deal, has penned a sentence which requires some comment even while the Senate is probing into who said what to whom, which seems so important to some people that the Chief of Staff of the Army and other top brass can take time off to sit for hours as spectators while a war is going on in Indochina. The learned professor wrote:

"When there are deficits, the business man pulls in his belt. But this is a fatal principle in government. The guiding doctrine should be this: what government does better, or what cannot be done under private auspices, must be done by government. But the new Administration proposes a return to 18th Century principles that would leave undone all but the minimum tasks of government."

The doctrine here enunciated is even new in the New Deal in one part of the argument, namely that "what government does better, must be done by government." This is, of course, a total negation of private enterprise. I suppose by "better," the professor means more efficiently, more cheaply, more adequately. It is not beyond belief that the Government could dispense cigars more efficiently and even more cheaply than the thousands of cigar stores that compete against each other for my custom.

The government-owned installations could make up the difference by not paying taxes; by putting in low-priced civil service workers who would be forbidden to strike by law and whose only hope for the future lay in a pension; by taking the sites for factories and stores from private owners by the law of eminent domain; by making up deficits out of taxes; and finally, by abolishing cigars as against the common interest.

This is the efficiency of slavery, not of free men. Apparently Professor Harris would not have the Government perform minimum tasks as Thomas Jefferson held to be right. What are the maximum tasks of government? It could be total control of every function of the individual in society, the ownership of all property and the control of each person, from the cradle to the grave. Such a society now exists in the Soviet Universal State.

Its most developed form is in Soviet Russia; its worst form is in Red China. In both these countries, limitations are placed upon the development of the individual which have produced a way of life completely different from ours in which the individual need neither be dependent upon nor cravenly obedient to those who control the power of the state. He can vote them out of office.

fied calumny. Or, as one writer who is not enamored of Kansas, said: "They assert vehemently that Kansas doesn't have tornadoes either."

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

JULIA ran up the ramp, and down the slope to the emergency room. Only Dr. Aiken was there. He said: "Looking for somebody, Miss Taber?"

"Dr. Marshall. I have someone outside who wants to see him."

"Won't I do?"

"No. Sorry, you won't do, doctor. She ran upstairs to the desk."

It was already late. Pete might be asleep. "Call Dr. Marshall for me, will you, please? This is an emergency," she told the girl on duty there.

"Dr. Aiken is on emergency tonight."

"This is special. Just call him on the house phone, please? I think he'll come down. Tell him it's Miss Taber calling."

Pete came down. He still wore his white coat. He looked rumpled as though he had been asleep.

"You, Taber? What now?"

"Will you go out with me, doctor, on a very special case?"

"You know I don't take cases outside the hospital."

"This isn't a medical case. It's—psychological, I think. It's Sewell Albright's daughter."

He frowned. "I'm not a psychiatrist either, Taber."

"I'm not asking you to do anything unethical. Would you walk down here a little way where no one is listening?"

He moved a few paces down the hall, leaned against the wall. "Albright's daughter. She's that dark girl with the go-to-the-devil eye, isn't she?"

"Sally. She's in trouble—and because they are friends of our family I must help her. Doctor, you know Farrell Rhodes pretty well, don't you? Will you go with me to take Sally Albright out there?"

Try, Stop Me

Fifty years ago, when an automobile still made people come running blocks to gape, and horses shy in their traces, Col. H. Nelson Jackson made the first transcontinental motor tour in history.

The Colonel set out from San Francisco on May 23, 1903, and wound up on Fifth Avenue, New York, exactly 63 days later, after a series of adventures that included mudholes, unbridled mountain streams and journeys across untracked and uncharted desert wastes.

One of Colonel Jackson's most unnecessary detours was near Marysville, Calif., when a bright little girl's misdirection sent him on a fifty-mile goose chase. After he had retraced the ground he

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — An attitude of greater solicitude for the vast body of unorganized workers has supplanted Roosevelt-Truman devotion to the politically minded bosses of the "big four" unions since James P. Mitchell succeeded Martin P. Durkin, plumbing union official as Secretary of Labor.

Unlike his Democratic predecessors, Mitchell believes that the 18 million members of the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, the United Mine Workers and the Railway Brotherhoods are fully protected in their rights by existing law and contractual agreements with responsible employers. Although not too successful in recent years, they can also exert political pressure on Capitol Hill and at the polls.

But the 40 million employed in nonindustrial plants—tradesmen, service people and white-collar employees—need more consideration in order to preserve a well-balanced economy, in his opinion. They are the principal victims in an economic squeeze.

HOPES—Mitchell does not advocate any new or far-reaching federal legislation on their behalf, such as was enacted for union members during the Democratic regime. He believes that their lot can be improved through establishment of better and more stabilized relations with the front office than by bureaucratic laws or action.

He thinks, too, that the 48 states can and should adopt legislation on their behalf. Working together, he feels that Washington and the states can fix and possibly increase minimum wages in these lines, broaden and boost unemployment insurance protection, provide a degree of guaranteed work and improve health standards.

Again reversing previous policies, Mitchell maintains that the Labor Department, although established to protect the interests of the workers, should seek the viewpoints and cooperation of employers. He has already found them sympathetic to his plan for a more well-balanced and comprehensive administrative system, with greater emphasis on social relationships than political action.

RESPONSE — Strangely enough, he has met a responsive reaction from labor union officials, especially George L. Meany, AFL president, and Walter P. Reuther, CIO head. They take the logical position that improved conditions for all workers will have a beneficial effect on the union membership.

For one thing, by closing the economic gap between 40 million less fortunately placed workers and the unionized forces in heavy industries, it will remove or lessen white-collar prejudice toward the more privileged employees. By emphasizing the responsibilities of states and management toward the unorganized, it will tend to remove this difficult question from the halls of Congress and the White House doorstep.

Naturally, Mitchell has President Eisenhower's full support in his attempted reorientation of labor policies and objectives. Such erstwhile employers of vast pools of labor as Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson (General Motors), Treasury Secretary George

Girl Scout Association Has Talk By National Advisor

Area Councils Is Topic Of Address

Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scout Association held a Spring meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the basement of First Methodist church.

Mrs. Florence Jones, community adviser from the national staff, served as guest speaker. She used the formation of Area Councils as topic for her address, which emphasized the following four points:

Area development of councils and lone troops; what is happening in neighboring councils; the organizational structure of the council, including districting and neighborhooding; and the Senior Scout program which helps to train older scouts to become future leaders.

Mrs. Jones announced plans for a Midwest Senior roundup to be held during 1956, with members of senior troops participating in primitive camping and various scout activities.

The speaker stated that "joining hands" for better Scouting is going on all over the country. By pooling resources, finances and personnel, all scouting stands to benefit, particularly the lone troops scattered throughout the neighboring communities. It gives the advantage of additional services to volunteer workers, as well as the stimulation that derives from working cooperatively with a larger organization.

Better Scouting for more girls, help in recruiting and training of volunteers, and an expanded program in both troops and camping, are a few of the advantages to be gained by this extended jurisdiction.

Already over 60 of the 68 thousand Girl Scout Troops are within the jurisdiction of Girl Scout Councils. Within the next few years, the National organization hopes to extend these services to all troops through neighboring Councils.

The meeting opened with a song session led by Miss Doris Schreiner. Mrs. Joseph Adkins served as accompanist.

During the business session, conducted by Mrs. Walter Heine, Girl Scout Commissioner, Mrs. Robert Weaver, Juliette Love Chairman, announced that Girl Scouts in America are helping to furnish material for Girl Scout Uniforms for Korean Scouts through a "Help Korea Train" sponsored by the American Korean Foundation. Circleville and Pickaway County organization is contributing three uniforms to the campaign.

Mrs. Carl Snider, program chairman, announced a change of date for Spring Court of Awards. This achievement program will be held May 12 in Trinity Lutheran Parish House. At this time Intermediate and Senior Scouts will be awarded

Girl Scout Association Has Talk By National Advisor

Area Councils Is Topic Of Address

Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scout Association held a Spring meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the basement of First Methodist church.

Mrs. Florence Jones, community adviser from the national staff, served as guest speaker. She used the formation of Area Councils as topic for her address, which emphasized the following four points:

Area development of councils and lone troops; what is happening in neighboring councils; the organizational structure of the council, including districting and neighborhooding; and the Senior Scout program which helps to train older scouts to become future leaders.

Mrs. Jones announced plans for Midwest Senior roundup to be held during 1956, with members of senior troops participating in primitive camping and various scout activities.

The speaker stated that "joining hands" for better Scouting is going on all over the country. By pooling resources, finances and personnel, all scouting stands to benefit, particularly the lone troops scattered throughout the neighboring communities. It gives the advantage of additional services to volunteer workers, as well as the stimulation that derives from working cooperatively with a larger organization.

Better Scouting for more girls, help in recruiting and training of volunteers, and an expanded program in both troops and camping, are a few of the advantages to be gained by this extended jurisdiction.

Already over 60 of the 68 thousand Girl Scout Troops are within the jurisdiction of Girl Scout Councils. Within the next few years, the National organization hopes to extend these services to all troops through neighboring Councils.

The meeting opened with a song session led by Miss Doris Schreiner. Mrs. Joseph Adkins served as accompanist.

During the business session, conducted by Mrs. Walter Heine, Girl Scout Commissioner, Mrs. Robert Weaver, Juliette Lowe, Chairman, announced that Girl Scouts in America are helping to furnish material for Girl Scout Uniforms for Korean Scouts through a "Help Korea Train" sponsored by the American Korean Foundation. Circleville and Pickaway County organization is contributing three uniforms to the campaign.

Mrs. Carl Snider, program chairman, announced a change of date for Spring Court of Awards. This achievement program will be held May 12 in Trinity Lutheran Parish House. At this time Intermediate and Senior Scouts will be awarded

Judgement on Jeroboam

HE SINNED AGAINST JEHOVAH AND WAS PUNISHED

Scripture—I Kings 12:25-33; 14:1-20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

JEROBOAM, the "mighty man of valor," to whom Solomon had given a post of honor, and later drove into exile, is now king of Israel, ruler over the 10 tribes, as the prophet Ahijah foretold. Our lesson today is the story of his life as the first king of the 10 tribes of the divided kingdom. Since the breaking out of World War I in 1914, we have seen many republics rise and kingdoms fall. Kings and dictators have resigned, abdicated, gone into exile and some have died far from home; others were executed. There have been so many changes in these last 40 years that we sometimes are puzzled to remember what nations are free and which are under the domination of stronger governments.

Jeroboam had been blessed by Jehovah. He had been made a ruler, accepted by his people, and might have made his kingdom a happy, God-fearing nation. Did he? We shall learn how he sinned and displeased God by his evil doing.

He first built two new places of worship, one, Shechem on among the people, and made three prince over My people Israel, and rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it to thee; and yet thou hast not been as My servant David, who kept My commandments . . . but hast done evil above all that were before thee; for thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and hast cast Me behind thy back:

"Therefore, behold, I will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam, and will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam," and the Lord uttered dreadful threats upon Jeroboam and upon his people.

Then Ahijah said that the woman should go home, and "when thy feet enter into the city, the child shall die."

"And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him; for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because in him there is found some good thing toward the Lord God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam."

What a terrible thing it was

MEMORY VERSE

"Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping His commandments."—Deuteronomy 8:11.

Mount Ephraim, and then Peniel. Then Jeroboam thought to himself, "If this people go up to do sacrifice in the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people turn again unto their Lord, even Rehoboam, king of Judah, and they shall kill me."

Jeroboam was a selfish man, you see, concerned only with his own security, or what he thought was that. He had seen what happened to Solomon when he fore-saw the Lord and worshiped idols. He could have established these places for the worship of the Lord, but he had not learned his lesson. Jeroboam made two calves of gold, putting one in Bethel and the other in Dan; he made priests of the lowest of the people, and he ordained a feast in the eighth month and offered sacrifices to the golden calves he had made.

Then his young son, Abijah, fell sick. Jeroboam told his wife to disguise herself so that no one would recognize her, and to go to the home of Ahijah, the prophet who had prophesied the division of the kingdom, and to take the child to him to find out what was to become of him.

However, the Lord, acquainted Ahijah that Jeroboam's wife was on her way to him, in disguise, so that when she entered Ahijah's house he said to her: "Come in thou wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thyself to be another? for I am sent to thee with heavy tidings."

"Go tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, forasmuch as I exalted thee from that out of all the people of Israel for which the Lord had done so much, the only one He could find that had "some good thing" toward his Maker was this innocent sick child.

Ahijah further told Jeroboam's wife that the Lord would smite Israel and cut off the house of Jeroboam because he had sinned and caused his people to sin.

How desolate must Jeroboam's wife have been as she went homeward with the prophet's dreadful words ringing in her ears. As Ahijah had said, when she reached Tirzah, and came to the threshold of the palace door, her child died.

"And they buried him and all Israel mourned for him, according to the word of the Lord, which He spoke by the hand of His servant Ahijah the prophet."

Jeroboam reigned "two and twenty years," according to Scripture, and then he died and his son, Nadab, reigned in his stead. Thus ended the life of this self-seeking man who not only turned from the worship of Jehovah who had established him in his kingdom, but led his people to do likewise, incurring the wrath of the Lord.

All of us, from the youngest to the oldest, have our "spheres of influence." We cannot lead a whole people to do wrong by our sinning, but we can set an example to all those with whom we come in contact, and help them to take the right path and be true to God and trust in His goodness by worshipping only Him.

Pastors Reminded Of Schedule Check

Pastors of churches in Circleville and elsewhere in the district are reminded that a recheck is now being made on The Herald's church calendar listings — those carried each Friday for county churches and those carried Saturday for the city churches.

Normal policy has been to permit the last reported schedule for any one church to stand, unless specific changes are made in writing in time to make the corrections. This has been done even when the old listing has not been confirmed as being still correct.

For rechecking purposes, how-ev, it will be necessary to have all churches report their church schedule information during the week starting next Sunday, May 2, whether the current listing is correct or not. Failure to do this will be taken as indication that the schedule listing is no longer needed.

Purpose of the recheck is to serve all churches and their members with more accurate and up-to-date schedules from week to week. News material for either of the church pages should be at The Herald by noon on the day prior to publication.

Judgement on Jeroboam

HE SINNED AGAINST JEHOVAH AND WAS PUNISHED

Scripture—I Kings 12:25-33; 14:1-20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

JEROBOAM, the "mighty man of valor," to whom Solomon had given a post of honor, and later drove into exile, is now king of Israel, ruler over the 10 tribes, as the prophet Ahijah foretold. Our lesson today is the story of his life as the first king of the 10 tribes of the divided kingdom.

Since the breaking out of World War I in 1914, we have seen many republics rise and kingdoms fall. Kings and dictators have resigned, abdicated, gone into exile and some have died far from home; others were executed. There have been so many changes in these last 40 years that we sometimes are puzzled to remember what nations are free and which are under the domination of stronger governments.

Jeroboam had been blessed by Jehovah. He had been made a ruler, accepted by his people, and might have made his kingdom a happy, God-fearing nation. Did he? We shall learn how he sinned and displeased God by his evil doing.

He first built two new places of worship, one, Shechem on among the people, and made there a prince over My people Israel, and rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it to thee; and yet thou hast not been as My servant David, who kept My commandments . . . but hast done evil above all that were before thee; for thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and hast cast Me behind thy back.

"Therefore, behold, I will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam, and will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam," and the Lord uttered dreadful threats upon Jeroboam and upon his people.

Then Ahijah said that the woman should go home, and "when thy feet enter into the city, the child shall die."

"And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him; for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because in him there is found some good thing toward the Lord God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam."

What a terrible thing it was

MEMORY VERSE

"Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping His commandments."—Deuteronomy 8:11.

Mount Ephraim, and then Penuel. Then Jeroboam thought to do sacrifice, "If this people go up to do sacrifice in the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people turn again unto their Lord, even Rehoboam, king of Judah, and they shall kill me."

Jeroboam was a selfish man, you see, concerned only with his own security, or what he thought was that. He had seen what happened to Solomon when he foresook the Lord and worshipped idols. He could have established these places for the worship of the Lord, but he had not learned his lesson. Jeroboam made two calves of gold, putting one in Bethel and the other in Dan; he made priests of the lowest of the people, and he ordained a feast in the eighth month and offered sacrifices to the golden calves he had made.

Then his young son, Abijah, fell sick. Jeroboam told his wife to disguise herself so that no one would recognize her, and to go to the house of Ahijah, the prophet who had prophesied the division of the kingdom, and to take the child to him to find out what was to become of him.

However, the Lord, acquainted Ahijah that Jeroboam's wife was on her way to him, in disguise, so that when she entered Ahijah's house he said to her: "Come in thou wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thyself to be another? for I am sent to thee with heavy tidings."

"Go tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, forasmuch as I exalted thee from that out of all the people of Israel for which the Lord had done so much, the only one He could find that had "some good thing" toward his Maker was this innocent sick child.

Ahijah further told Jeroboam's wife that the Lord would smite Israel and cut off the house of Jeroboam because he had sinned and caused his people to sin.

How desolate must Jeroboam's wife have been as she went homeward with the prophet's dreadful words ringing in her ears. As Ahijah had said, when she reached Tirzah, and came to the threshold of the palace door, her child died.

"And they buried him and all Israel mourned for him, according to the word of the Lord, which He spake by the hand of His servant Ahijah the prophet."

Jeroboam reigned "two and twenty years," according to Scripture, and then he died and his son, Nadab, reigned in his stead. Thus ended the life of this self-seeking man who not only turned from the worship of Jehovah who had established him in his kingdom, but led his people to do likewise, incurring the wrath of the Lord.

All of us, from the youngest to the oldest, have our "spheres of influence." We cannot lead a whole people to do wrong by our sinning, but we can set an example to all those with whom we come in contact, and help them to take the right path and be true to God and trust in His goodness by worshipping only Him.

Tots Are Holding Up Their End Of Business In A Prosperous Way

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—If you see any babies today, don't hesitate to smile at them, pat them on their little backs and tell them what a great job they're doing for the country.

For this is National Baby Week, a proper time to honor the new hero of the American economy.

The baby always has been a big heart throb in the home, but he hardly was regarded as a big figure in industry.

He is today. The kid in diapers is a kingpin of our national prosperity. It is everybody's business to be nice to babies, because babies are nice for practically everybody's business.

The financial giants no longer forecast the future now merely by keeping tabs on the stockmarket ticker. They also check the baby statistics, and the statistics make pleasant reading.

Catering to babies is now a $5 billion-a-year business. In 1953 some 3,890,000 babies arrived here, 70,000 more than the year before, and the production lines are still going full blast. No wonder that, even in as small a country as Holland, it is against the law to shoot storks.

Typical of the businessmen who have benefited from the nation's rising infant crop is Jack Turk, who manufactures baby garments. Before the baby boom started, Turk had 12 employees and made only blankets. Now he has 300 employees in three factories that turn out 75 specialized products for babies.

"Babies come into the world bare of any inventory," said Turk contentedly. "They need a lot of things right away."

"As a matter of fact, babies are customers even before they are born. The average parents now spend $50 for a layette in advance of birth."

A survey Turk made of 10,000 infant wear outlets showed some new trends in the market, such as:

Because parents now buy more baby clothes in advance, the old tradition of "pink for the girl and blue for the boy" no longer holds true. The favorite colors now are mint, maize and white.

Some 60 per cent of all baby goods are bought as gifts. Less than five per cent of men shop for baby items.

Grandma has a lot to say about what is bought for the first baby, but when the second baby arrives the parents are on their own.

"The trend now is to make items for babies that are safer, more comfortable and more colorful," Turk said. "We are finding that color is an important factor in satisfying the psychological and emotional needs of the infant."

This has resulted in such innovations as plastic nursing bottles that won't shatter, folding carriages that take up less space and disposable diapers. Turk himself has pioneered with acetate fiber garments for babies allergic to rings that can be attached to crib slats to prevent babies from smothering.

A business recession?

"I can't see one in sight in our field," Turk said, "not the way people are getting married and having larger families."

Turk and other men in the field are highly annoyed, however, over what happens when babies get a little older and start picking out their own clothing. They all seem to want to go around in dungarees and polo shirts.

"We are launching a big campaign to get them to dress up more," he said, and added severely, "Why, it is getting hard to tell little girls and boys apart. This dungaree habit has become a terrible threat to the proper development of their personalities."

What it is doing to the personalities of children's wear manufacturers is even worse. Ulcers—in technicolor.

Sport Briefs

Kentucky Derby Day tomorrow will be spread across the country on both radio and television. The race itself will be in the half-hour program starting at 4:15 p. m. EST. It will be preceded by a radio preview at 2:45 and one on TV at 4.

Dave Leggett, Ohio State's No. 2 quarterback from New Philadelphia, is out of action with a sprained ankle, but is expected back in time for the May 8 intrasquad final game.

Approximately 1,000 high school and college coaches were expected today for the opening of the University of Cincinnati's annual football coaching clinic.

Orlando Zulueta, the Cuban lightweight who seldom damages nor gets damaged, takes on Paolo Rosi, the balding Italian, in a 10 p. m. 10-round bout in New York.

Dick Gonzales and Pancho Segura easily won their opening matches last night in Cleveland's annual professional tournament.

a crowd of 12,484 at Kansas City saw the Blues edge Louisville 4-3 in 12 innings.

Minneapolis disappointed 4,580 home fans by dropping a 6-2 decision to Columbus.

Crowd Streaming Into Old Kentucky For Annual Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A human flood threatened to engulf this Ohio River town as time approached for tomorrow's running of the 80th Kentucky Derby with a near record field in prospect for the $100,000-added race for three-year-olds.

The city was bulging at the seams as the trainers of an expected field of at least 20 marched into the secretary's office at Churchill Downs to drop the names of their hopefuls into the entry box for perhaps the richest of all derbies.

They came from far and near by automobile, regular and special trains and airplanes. And there were some known even to be en route by shanks' pony. Hotel men said there wouldn't be an available room within 100 miles of Louisville by nightfall.

Few sporting events can match the derby in color and this year is no exception. The Downs itself is a thing of beauty with its multiple colored flowers and plants and closely cropped grass.

Post time for the derby is 4:30 p. m. EST and by that time the three-eighths mile long stands and the infield are expected to be packed with more than 100,000 spectators. The mile and a quarter classic will be televised from 4 to 4:45 p. m. and broadcast from 4:15 to 4:45 by CBS.

Showers were forecast for today but tomorrow the weatherman promised good racing weather. It may be cloudy and a little cool, he said, but the racing strip should be lightning fast.

Robert S. Lytle's long striding Correlation, winner of the Florida Derby and Wood Memorial, remained the firm 5 to 2 choice as the entries began coming in. There was no indication he would be ousted from the favorite's role be-

Mr. Roberts
Back In His Usual FormPhiladelphia Hurler
Showing Vengeance In National Loop PlayBy The Associated Press
Hitters beware! Philadelphia's Robin Roberts is back in form — with a vengeance.

The tireless right-hander has been moving down the opposition with amazing regularity for 5½ seasons. But he hit the skids in the last six weeks of the 1953 campaign, losing eight while winning only three.

After showing next to nothing in spring training Roberts was kayoed by the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates on opening day 4-2 and they began to sing the blues in Philadelphia.

But that's all over and forgiven now. He tripped the Pirates the next time out with a four-hit shut-out, lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to the New York Giants last weekend and then last night stopped the Milwaukee Braves on one lonesome hit 4-0.

Del Crandall's third-inning double put the only dent in one of Roberts' best ever performances. The 27-year-old Michigan State star faced 30 batters, walked two and struck out six.

The one-hitter was Roberts' first anywhere.

In other major league action yesterday the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded five home runs in beating the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-5 but the Redlegs held on to first place in the National League as Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-3. Baltimore edged Washington 2-1, Cleveland defeated Boston 6-3 and the New York Yankees evened matters with the Chicago White Sox 5-4. The four other clubs weren't scheduled.

Junior Gilliam led the Dodger home run barrage in Cincinnati with a pair and added a double to the 10-hit attack against Harry Perkowsky. Dick Williams, Pee Wee Reese and Gilliam all homered in the sixth inning. Snider got one in the first.

A pair of doubles, a walk and a sacrifice fly got a Redleg rally going in the ninth but relief ace Jim Hughes retired Jim Greengrass on a foul fly with the tying runs on base.

Bob Purkey, one of the score of Pittsburgh rookies, won his first major league start as Dick Cole singled home two runs in the top of the ninth at St. Louis. Harvey Haddix struck out 13 Pirates in suffering his third loss.

Casey Stengel, who rewrites the rules of baseball strategy almost daily, brought in left-handed Enos Slaughter to pinch hit against lefty Billy Pierce in the sixth inning in New York and the former Cardinal star delivered a single that tied the game.

Eddie Robinson, another pinch hitter, followed with another single that meant another run and Allie Reynolds saved Eddie Lopat's 150th major league triumph with three hitless innings in relief.

Cleveland warmed up for a two-game series with the Yankees by pounding four Boston pitchers for nine hits. The Indians got five of their runs in the first two innings as Willard Nixon suffered from wildness.

Bob Turley of the Orioles who was beaten by Cleveland in his last start after pitching no-hit ball into the ninth inning, was in fine form again against Washington. He struck out nine, making him the league's leading strikeout artist, and allowed only five hits.

Television baseball tomorrow in the Game of the Week series will be the Baltimore Orioles at Philadelphia starting at 12:45 EST.

Red Hurlers
Giving Up
Many Homers

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Redleg pitchers have given up 31 home runs in 15 games. Only twice have their opponents failed to hit at least one circuit blow. Only once has the starting pitcher been able to go all the way. And where are they in the National League?

They're still in first place despite a 7-5 beating from the Brooklyn Dodgers last night in which the Brooks clubbed five homers.

That was high for the Redleg hurlers this season although twice before they have given up four in one game.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts' only comment was "we're pitching where they're hitting." He added, however, he felt the law of averages would catch up with the Redleg hurlers so they wouldn't be serving up so many of those damaging home run balls.

Some of the players and coaches in the league have complained about a "shrinking strike zone." Umpires Augie Donatelli, Lon Warneke, Lee Ballanfant and Al Barlick scoffed at such an idea. They declared the strike zone is unchanged.

The Reds were able to cling to first place last night only because the Pittsburgh Pirates nosed out the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds threatened to pull the game out of the fire when they scored two runs in the ninth and drove starter Carl Erskine to the showers before Jim Hughes came on to put out the fire.

The home run pitches were given up by starter Harry Perkowsky. Six of the seven Brooklyn runs were accounted for by home runs. Junior Gilliam got two and Duke Snider, Dick Williams and Pee Wee Reese got one each.

Lopez Keeps
Al Rosen On First Base

NEW YORK (AP)—The rookie who pushed him off third base is benched with an injury, but Al Rosen stayed on first base today as his Cleveland Indians opened their first series against the New York Yankees.

Rudy Regalado, the hard-hitting youngster who moved Rosen around to first, pulled a muscle high in his right thigh yesterday while running out a bunt in the sixth inning as the Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 6-3. The injury probably will keep him on the bench for 10 days.

Manager Al Lopez sent in Al Smith to replace the rookie and said later the 240 hitting substitute would remain there until Regalado gets back.

Before putting Regalado into the lineup, Lopez had Billy Glynn at first and Rosen at third. Glynn had a .419 average when he was benched, but most of that was built up in the first few games.

Lopez said he was keeping Rosen on first to give him more experience at the new position. Rosen, who is not the world's most fancy glove man, missed a throw into the dirt by Strickland the time Kell singled to deep short.

Bob Lemon pitches today's game against the Yankees, Lemon, who had a 21-15 record last year, won four games then from the Yankees and lost three to them. Tom Morgan, a youngster just out of the Army, pitches for New York.

Candy Carroll of Alliance, Western Reserve fullback who was sidelined last season, will be back and ready to play football this fall. Coach Eddie Finnigan got a letter from Carroll yesterday saying the player's chest ailment had healed.

Sokolosky's

It is not a question as to which system is "better," but rather which system a people prefers. Our theory is based on the right of choice, on the right of a people to determine for themselves the kind of government they want. If the American people want Socialism or Communism, they could, by ordering constitutional means, establish such societies. They could amend The Constitution to conform to their ideas.

Professor Harris removes himself from the objectivity of the scholar to the confusions of vitriolic journalism when he writes:

"What the Honest Dollar proposes is to make the dollar more valuable by reducing the supply. This is at the bottom of the proposals to balance the budget, to cut government spending, to raise the rate of interest, and cut the supply of credit. . . ."

It would seem that the professor cannot relate his thinking to the dangers of inflation, which can wreck such a society as ours. The 53-cent dollar is a peril to us because it dries up the reservoirs of private capital and makes an increasing number of persons dependent upon the State.

A 25-cent dollar, a ten-cent dollar, would end not only private enterprise but a free society. The so-called "Honest Dollar," an excellent term, hopes to re-establish the value of the dollar, the purchasing power of the dollar so that families may be enabled to save money, to reduce debt and to invest for the future. Is such a program wrong?

Is it justified to say, as Professor Harris does say, that such a dollar will produce "blood-letting, bankruptcy, and liquidation?"

Del Crandall's third-inning double put the only dent in one of Roberts' best ever performances.

The 27-year-old Michigan State star faced 30 batters, walked two and struck out six.

The one-hitter was Roberts' first anywhere.

In other major league action yesterday the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded five home runs in beating the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-5 but the Redlegs held on to first place in the National League as Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-3. Baltimore edged Washington 2-1, Cleveland defeated Boston 6-3 and the New York Yankees evened matters with the Chicago White Sox 5-4. The four other clubs weren't scheduled.

Junior Gilliam led the Dodger home run barrage in Cincinnati with a pair and added a double to the 10-hit attack against Harry Perkowsky. Dick Williams, Pee Wee Reese and Gilliam all homered in the sixth inning. Snider got one in the first.

A pair of doubles, a walk and a sacrifice fly got a Redleg rallying going in the ninth but relief ace Jim Hughes retired Jim Greengrass on a foul fly with the tying runs on base.

Bob Purkey, one of the score of Pittsburgh rookies, won his first major league start as Dick Cole singled home two runs in the top of the ninth at St. Louis. Harvey Haddix struck out 13 Pirates in suffering his third loss.

Casey Stengel, who rewrites the rules of baseball strategy almost daily, brought in left-handed Enos Slaughter to pinch hit against lefty Billy Pierce in the sixth inning in New York and the former Cardinal star delivered a single that tied the game.

Eddie Robinson, another pinch hitter, followed with another single that meant another run and Allie Reynolds saved Eddie Lopat's 150th major league triumph with three hitless innings in relief.

Cleveland warmed up for a two-game series with the Yankees by pounding four Boston pitchers for nine hits. The Indians got five of their runs in the first two innings as Willard Nixon suffered from wildness.

Bob Turley of the Orioles who was beaten by Cleveland in his last start after pitching no-hit ball into the ninth inning, was in fine form again against Washington. He struck out nine, making him the league's leading strikeout artist, and allowed only five hits.

*Television baseball tomorrow in the Game of the Week series will be the Baltimore Orioles at Philadelphia starting at 12:45 E.S.T.

Red Hurlers Giving Up Many Homers

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Redleg pitchers have given up 31 home runs in 15 games. Only twice have their opponents failed to hit at least one circuit ball. Only once has the starting pitcher been able to go all the way. And where are they in the National League?

They're still in first place despite a 7-5 beating from the Brooklyn Dodgers last night in which the Brooks clubbed five homers.

That was high for the Redleg hurlers this season although twice before they have given up four in one game.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts' only comment was "we're pitching where they're hitting." He added, however, he felt the law of averages would catch up with the Redleg hurlers so they wouldn't be serving up so many of those damaging home run balls.

Some of the players and coaches in the league have complained about a "shrinking strike zone."

Umpires Augie Donatelli, Lon Warneke, Lee Ballanfant and Al Barlick scoffed at such an idea. They declared the strike zone is unchanged.

The Reds were able to cling to first place last night only because the Pittsburgh Pirates nosed out the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds threatened to pull the game out of the fire when they scored two runs in the ninth and drove starter Carl Erskine to the showers before Jim Hughes came on to put out the fire.

The home run pitches were given up by starter Harry Perkowsky. Six of the seven Brooklyn runs were accounted for by home runs. Junior Gilliam got two and Duke Snider, Dick Williams and Peeewe Reese got one each.

Lopez Keeps Al Rosen On First Base

NEW YORK (AP)—The rookie who pushed him off third base is benched with an injury, but Al Rosen stayed on first base today as his Cleveland Indians opened their first series against the New York Yankees.

Rudy Regalado, the hard-hitting youngster who moved Rosen around in first, pulled a muscle high in his right thigh yesterday while running out a bunt in the sixth inning as the Indians beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-3. The injury probably will keep him on the bench for 10 days.

Manager Al Lopez sent in Al Smith to replace the rookie and said later the 240 hitting substitute would remain there until Regalado gets back.

Before putting Regalado into the lineup, Lopez had Billy Glynn at first and Rosen at third. Glynn had a .419 average when he was benched, but most of that was built up in the first few games.

Lopez said he was keeping Rosen on first to give him more experience at the new position. Rosen, who is not the world's most fancy glove man, missed a throw into the dirt by Strickland the time Kell singled to deep short.

Bob Lemon pitches today's game against the Yankees, Lemon, who had a 21-15 record last year, won four games then from the Yankees and lost three to them. Tom Morgan, a youngster just out of the Army, pitches for New York.

Candy Carroll of Alliance, Western Reserve fullback who was sidelined last season, will be back and ready to play football this fall. Coach Eddie Finnigan got a letter from Carroll yesterday saying the player's chest ailment had healed.

Sokolsky's These Days

It is not a question as to which system is "better," but rather which system a people prefers. Our theory is based on the right of choice, on the right of a people to determine for themselves the kind of government they want. If the American people want Socialism or Communism, they could, by order of constitutional means, establish such societies. They could amend The Constitution to conform to their ideas.

Professor Harris removes himself from the objectivity of the scholar to the confusions of vitriolic journalism when he writes:

"What the Honest Dollar School proposes is to make the dollar more valuable by reducing the supply. This is at the bottom of the proposals to balance the budget, to cut government spending, to raise the rate of interest, and cut the supply of credit."

It would seem that the professor cannot relate his thinking to the dangers of inflation, which can wreck such a society as ours. The 53-cent dollar is a peril to us because it dries up the reservoirs of private capital and makes an increasing number of persons dependent upon the State.

A 25-cent dollar, a ten-cent dollar, would end not only private enterprise but a free society. The so-called "Honest Dollar," an excellent term, hopes to re-establish the value of the dollar, the purchasing power of the dollar so that families may be enabled to save money, to reduce debt and to invest for the future. Is such a program worth?

Is it justified to say, as Professor Harris does say, that such a dollar will produce "blood-letting, bankruptcy, and liquidation?"

Garbage, Rubbish Dumped On Roads

2 Groups Seek Action To Curb Highway Mess

Sportsmen Plugged To Report Violators

The unsightly condition of garbage and refuse strewn along Ohio's highways has prompted action from several sources. In addition there has been comment both from local and state organizations.

A proclamation has just been announced by the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen's Association dealing with this subject. The resolution, which was unanimously passed at a recent meeting, reads as follows:

"Be it resolved: that the deplorable practice of some inconsiderate persons of throwing their garbage and rubbish along our highways, and into our streams, be brought to the immediate attention of the county commissioners and sheriff, and request that they take positive action to remedy this practice; and

"Be it further resolved: that we of the League of Ohio Sportsmen seek the co-operation of other conservation organizations and civic groups to assist in this clean-up program, and that each of our members act as a committee of one to report all cases of dumping. This is to be witnessed by taking the license numbers and to check trash dumpings to look for such evidence as discarded mail, receipts and medicine bottle prescription numbers to identify owners. This evidence is to be phoned into the sheriff and an affidavit to be filed with the proper court."

IN OTHER WORDS, this group is actually going to act as investigators in order to forcefully enforce their campaign to check filth. There have been numerous reports of violations of even the basic sanitary conditions notwithstanding the offensive odor connected with such practices.

Ohio Department of Highways officials estimate the cost of cleaning highways this year will run almost $750,000. This money, together with the men and equipment used for cleaning up trash left by negligent people could be diverted to road maintenance work, according to C. W. Mc-

'Mean-Faced' Thug Picks Up $292

DENVER (U-P)—A gunman robbed Hummel's Delicatessen of $292 last night.

Mrs. Mary R. Hummel, operator of the store, said the bandit had "the meanest face I ever saw." She added, "he had a mean disposition too. He even took the pennies."

Caughey, chief of operations of the highway department.

"We have distributed posters in an attempt to dissuade motorists from dumping trash on the highways," McCaughey says. "Bottles and cans do serious damage not only to our mowing equipment but to auto tires as well. The broken bottles tossed out by some careless person could be the direct cause of a fatal accident from a blow-out."

The highway official concluded, "We hope that Ohio's motorists will heed the plea to 'Keep Our Highways Clean'."

Bob Wolf, secretary of the local PFSA, says that the problem is on the increase. He pointed out that although this area is not as bad as others the problem is with us and could become serious.

Men's Store To Offer Rare Test Of Shirts

An offer sure to make the strolling customers stop and think will soon be placed before the buying public here by Kinsey's Men's Shop—wear the shirt for two weeks and give it back if it doesn't come up to expectations!

Based chiefly on wearing qualities of the Van Heusen Century one-piece soft collar, the unusual shirt offer will be continued for an indefinite time. Advance announcement comes as Pickaway County men are already beginning to notice the collar-wilting effects of approaching hot weather.

The customer's money will be refunded after 14 days if one of the Century shirts purchased at Kinsey's fails to come up to all expectations and claims. Main idea, management of the N. Court St. store explains, is "to prove that the revolutionary new soft collar on the Van Heusen Century shirt won't wrinkle—ever."

During the trial period, the shirt can be worn any number of times and laundered. Purchase price will be no more than that of ordinary shirts.

Serving to touch off the shirt offer will be a special window display, built around the one millionth shirt manufactured by the Century firm.

WEST MAIN ST. IS IMPORTANT TO YOU

IF YOU ARE PLANNING TO BUY A USED CAR!

Did you ever stop to think that people buy more used cars than new ones? The cost is lower, of course. And a good used car has a lot to offer you in the way of enjoyable, economical transportation. It's a wise investment. This information can help guide you to a satisfactory choice.

In many ways, buying a used car is just like buying a new one. You want something that you can drive with pride, with pleasure, and with confidence in its performance and safety. You want the car you buy to be a good, sound investment over a lot of miles and over a long time.

How do you go about finding that kind of used car? How do you recognize it when you see it? What are the things to consider beyond its general appearance and its price? Well, the first and single most important thing is this:

BUY from a RELIABLE DEALER!

Instead of a used car, let's suppose you wanted to buy some expensive jewelry—a diamond ring, say. And suppose that, like most of us, you weren't sure that you could recognize all the differences in diamond quality and value. Wouldn't you want to be certain that you bought from a recognized and reliable jeweler or store? Then you could be confident that the ring would be exactly as represented, and that you were getting a fair and honest value.

Well, it's the same way in buying a used car. As an authorized Chevrolet dealer, our reputation for integrity and reliability is our most important asset. We have been in business for some time and we expect to stay in business. The only way we can protect our substantial investments in this community—and our business future—is to earn and hold the respect and goodwill of our customers.

That's one important reason why you can buy a used car with confidence here. The OK Used Car program is another—and an exclusive—step that we have taken to win and deserve your confidence.
